Election Plum Offered Island

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett reached into his bag of election goodies Thursday and came up with a plum for Vancouver Island voters in the Aug. 27 provincial election.

The 68-year-old premier announced that the department of highways will start "stretching" five more of its Vancouver Island ferries this year to expand their capacity.

He said the decision was taken because of the "very satisfactory" results following the insertion of an 84-foot midsection in the Queen of Esquimalt to permit the ferry to carry 60 additional cars and 200 more passengers at a cost of $2,250,000 last winter.

The same operation will be performed on three vessels on the Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay run and on two ferries on the Horseshoe Bay-Nanaimo route.

"Why the Queen of Esquimalt is just like an ocean liner," Mr. Bennett said in an interview.

"The stretching has worked out perfectly and, if anything, has improved the ship's handling because the ship may be even more stable now."

He also announced he will hold a "bond breakfast" in Vancouver Aug. 11 to disclose to the financial community and the public the terms of a $50,000,000 B.C. Hydro parity bond "roll-over" issue.

A four-year-old issue of 6½ per cent parities which matures Sept. 1 is to be refinanced.

Mr. Bennett spent 2½ days in Vancouver this week in conference with Social Credit party officials and businessmen, but he did little campaigning.

Party strategists say he is "holding his fire" for the home stretch and predict he will concentrate on answering opposition criticism in the latter part of the campaign "depending on how hot it gets."

Tonight Mr. Bennett is to attend a Social Credit nominating convention in Kelowna for the South Okanagan constituency he has represented since 1941.

He will host a strawberry social in Vernon Saturday where party members will celebrate the 17th anniversary of his government's accession to power.

Mr. Bennett flies to Quebec City Sunday for the three-day provincial premiers' conference and is expected to return to Vancouver next Thursday.

It's Old, Tired, Fumbling

Meanwhile, Liberal leader Dr. Pat McGeer says the Social Credit government is old, tired and fumbling and that Mr. Bennett is shaking at his knees at what he sees around him.

Dr. McGeer made the accusation in a speech in Trail in which he promised that a Liberal government will establish a bureau of consumer affairs to protect B.C. workers from the rising cost of living.

He said Mr. Bennett's claim that the leaders of the opposition do not have enough administrative experience to be premier was the comment of a "frightened man trying to hang on to an office he should have retired from while on top."

"The government is fumbling," he said. "The signs are everywhere—the Commonwealth Trust affair, double talk about pollution control, failures in education, failures to establish advanced secondary industry."

Tom Berger, leader of the New Democratic Party returned to his Vancouver-Burrard riding Thursday after his first campaign tour of the province, confident that his party will make substantial gains in the Interior.

Although he would not make any predictions on the number of seats he expects to win, Mr. Berger said the voters are taking "a really good look" at the New Democrats.

Sommers Decides By Aug. 8

He said he didn't think people were taking Mr. Bennett's "wild statements seriously" — and I don't believe the premier himself takes them seriously."

Mr. Berger said an NDP government could reduce the number of strikes and lockouts in B.C. However, he could not promise to eliminate them — "no government could do that completely unless it were a dictatorship."

His formula for reducing strikes and lockouts would include encouragement of collective bargaining on a continued basis and provision for early government mediation before disputes reached the crisis stage.

Robert Sommers, former land and forests minister says he will likely decide by Aug. 8 whether to run as an independent in the Rossland-Trail riding.

Mr. Sommers, who served more than two years of a five-year jail term for conspiracy and bribery while he held the portfolio, tried unsuccessfully to wrest the Social Credit nomination from Education Minister Donald Brothers earlier this week.

He and about 50 supporters stormed out of a nomination meeting in Trail following an argument with George Driedger, president of the B.C. Social Credit League, over eligibility of delegates. Mr. Brothers was re-nominated by acclamation.

Lionhearted Men Next . . .

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — The man who performed the world's first human heart transplant suggested Thursday that people may one day be walking around with lions' hearts in their chests.

Dr. Christiaan Barnard told reporters during a brief stopover in the Malaysian capital that doctors at Groote Schuur Hospital in Cape Town, South Africa, are working on animal heart transplants in an effort to study the possibility of putting them in humans.

Penticton Parade Popular

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — A crowd of 30,000 lined a two-mile route to watch the 1969 annual Peach Festival parade here Thursday night.

Many of the 38 visiting floats arrived from United States border cities. Temperatures hung in the 90s while Highland bands in full regalia, groups of Boy Scouts and city bands marched.

A 15-year-old Alberta majorette collapsed from heat exhaustion at the finish point on the Okanagan lakeshore. Penticton rescue and safety squads gave the girl first aid and she cooled off under a nearby tree.

But there was some relief for spectators. Members of the Vernon fire department hauled water at the crowds and a member of the parade wearing a pair of water wings under a 1920s bathing costume squirted sidewalk groups with a fire extinguisher.

Winner of the sweepstake award was the Pacific National Exhibition float from Vancouver and the Yakima, Wash., float was voted best entry for cities over 10,000.

In the under-10,000 category, the Greater Quincy float drew first prize and Penticton's 200 block float came tops in the commercial section. Penticton United Commercial Travellers took the non-commercial section award and the Penticton fire department had best comic float.

Non-Stop Trip Investigated

LONDON (Reuters) — An RAF VC-10 jet has flown around the world in slightly more than 45 hours to test the effects of long-distance flights on air crews.

The big jet landed at its base near London Thursday after the journey of almost 21,000 miles flown at an average speed of 450 miles an hour—including four ground stops to refuel.

Four doctors accompanied two crews flying the plane in shifts to study air crew fatigue and the possibility of operating virtually non-stop reviews in an emergency, an RAF spokesman said.

Chance Of Life Upon Mars Now Appears More Remote

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The odds against finding life on Mars lengthened today as scientists studied Mariner VI's closest yet pictures of the red planet, showing a meteorite-battered surface much like the moon's.

Black-and-white photographs televised across 58,000 miles Thursday night disclosed such utter desolation that only the most optimistic could hope for the presence of unseen living organisms.

There were huge and ancient craters, many with sharp-edged smaller craters inside; mountainous highlands; precipitous slopes, crack lines and scattered rubble—but no hint that the mysterious planet harbors life or ever did.

Scientists who plan to send surface-scratching unmanned landing craft to Mars in the 1970s were cautious in their comments on the possibility of life.

Said Dr. Robert Leighton, physicist-astronomer heading a study of the pictures: "The camera system was never expected to provide an answer to the question of life on Mars. It is expected if there is life on Mars it would be in microscopic form or a low order of vegetation."

Aussies To Study Water-Bombing

OTTAWA (CP) — Eight Australian and New Zealand government officials will arrive in Canada Aug. 8 for a three-week study of water-bombing techniques used to fight forest fires here, the industry department announced Friday. Canada has devised methods of dropping up to 90,000 gallons a day from aircraft flying low over burning areas.

Reserve Forces On Practice Run

OTTAWA (CP) — The reserve units of the Canadian Forces Mobile Command will train for three months beginning in mid-August with the 4th Canadian Mechanized Brigade Group in Europe, the defence department announced Friday. The 360 reserves will take part in an international exercise in southeastern Germany Oct. 1 as part of Canada's NATO military force.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A man has been arrested in the slaying of Karen Sue Belenman, one of seven young women found killed in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area in the last two years.

ECM Chief Grim About Chances On Wheat Pact

LONDON (CP) — The head of the European Common Market delegation said today there is little hope of getting agreement between Europe and North America in restoring stability in the sharing of the world wheat market.

"The situation is not promising," Dr. Louis Rabot, director-general of Common Market agriculture, said in an interview after a private session of officials of major exporting countries.

"We can't do much here," he added.

However, Canadian authorities said later it was too early to reach any conclusions and that talks will continue in efforts to end the price-cutting international struggle for markets.

"We are ready to stay here for a week or more if we see any hope of reaching an understanding," an official said.

Meeting in Canada's Macdonald House are senior officials of Canada, the United States, Australia, Argentina and the Common Market. Heading the Canadian delegation is Assistant Deputy Trade Minister Maurice Schwarzmann. Commissioner Charles Giddings represents the Canadian wheat board.

WATCHDOG WANTED
The Canadians are trying to get the major exporters to agree to establish watchdog machinery to end market raiding during this era of huge wheat surpluses and relatively unexpanding markets. Charges and counter-charges have been aired, with each exporting country accusing the other of exploiting unfair tactics of grabbing old wheat customers.

Both Canada and the U.S. have cut prices of lower wheat grades, breaching the floor of the three-year International Grains Arrangement. The Common Market, which in normal times is not a major exporter but this year has huge surpluses, has increased export subsidies to match North American prices.

While officials are attempting to explore the possibility of greater co-operation among the major exporters, they are worried of being accused by the importers of collusion to establish a rigid pattern of market-sharing. Officials said that market-sharing would be too strong a term to describe what they are trying to do.

Canada Wants Informal Pact

All the Canadians want is informal agreement that if one major exporter sells huge quantities of wheat under certain conditions, this country should be willing to step back a bit and let a competing country catch up in total sales to adhere to an historical pattern of over-all shipments. The U.S. has accused the Common Market of raiding its old markets in the Pacific.

Rabot suggested that in his opinion the major exporters should restore the IGA floor and attempt to resolve their differences within the International Wheat Council, which includes the importers as well as the exporters. Both Canada and the U.S. have indicated they would not be willing to withdraw their lower prices which have breached the floor.

One official pointed out that Canada has a stockpile of about 800,000,000 bushels of wheat with another 500,000,000 or so to be gathered in the harvest, making a total of about 1,300,000,000 bushels in the fall. The U.S. would have about 2,000,000,000 total, pushing total North American available stocks to a peak of about 3,300,000,000.

But there is some doubt that world markets can be increased even with the lower prices. One Canadian noted that in the past large quantities could be "dumped" in India and Pakistan which traditionally faces food destitution. But now wheat imports have increased harvests in these two countries, lowering requirements for imports.

Earlier informants said they face a difficult task at the talks but suggested the situation was not hopeless.

Both Sides Still Deadlocked As Dock Strike Threat Grows

VANCOUVER (CP) — Talks aimed at heading off a strike by 3,300 longshoremen in British Columbia ports were to resume at 9:30 a.m. EDT today, with both sides deadlocked over wages. The current three-year contract expired at midnight Thursday.

Negotiators for the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union and the B.C. Maritime Employers Association met all day Thursday. Neither side would comment.

Federal Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey, after announcing the union had promised to keep Pacific wheat shipments moving in the event of a strike, said he was confident a settlement could be reached if Thursday's talks "proved meaningful."

The union agreed to the BCMEA's proposal for a seven-day, 24-hour port operation, but balked at its 70-cent-an-hour wage offer over two years. The ILWU wants a guaranteed 40 hours work a week and $51 a shift. Current rate is $3.83 an hour, or about $31 a shift.

The BCMEA stands on a guarantee of 32 hours a week, contained in a conciliation board report which the union rejected. Some welfare fringe benefits, especially supplementary pension benefits are at issue.

The ILWU last struck in 1958 and tied up ships on the west coast of Canada for a month. It came near to a strike in 1966, but an agreement was signed 13 days after the former contract had expired.

CONDUCT VOTES
Hours after a settlement of the strike by 6,600 telephone workers against B.C. Telephone Co., teams of Federation of Telephone Workers officials left for Vancouver Island and Interior cities to conduct votes among the membership on the settlement.

The agreement, which provides for a 19.8 per cent wage increase over two years, was reached after an all-night bargaining session which ended in a settlement at 3 a.m. Thursday.

Jubilant Pakistanis Cheer As Nixon Jets In For Talks

LAHORE (Reuters) — Thousands of jubilant Pakistanis today gave President Nixon a wildly enthusiastic welcome after his presidential jet touched down here for a 23-hour visit on the final stretch of his five-month Asian tour.

White House officials were delighted with the warmest welcome Nixon has had so far on his global trip.

Excited, flag-waving crowds swarmed around Nixon when he twice stopped the limousine in which he was seated with Pakistani President Yahya Khan and walked along the street in 100-degree heat.

Troops with bayonets lined the airport to the governor's palace, built next to the celebrated domed tomb of Akbar the Great, the Mogul emperor who ruled India in the 16th century.

At the airport, Nixon stood on a red carpeted dais in blazing high noon sun and delighted Pakistanis by pledging he would deal with recent tensions in U.S.-Pakistan relations.

Nixon said he was making his fifth visit to Pakistan and his first as president.

"I want people in this country and those (leaders) to whom I will be talking to know that I come not just as a political leader and head of state. I am in the country as a friend of Pakistan."

Referring to a statement made by Yahya in his welcoming remarks about strains in relations, Nixon said: "I do not suggest that a one-day visit by itself will resolve them."

"But I do know this: What we can do—and what we intend to do on this visit—is to restore a relationship based on mutual trust."

Nixon also repeated the theme he has struck in the Philippines, Indonesia, Thailand, and India—that Asians must take over the responsibility for shaping their own future.

Points of contention between the two nations include an American arms sales ban imposed after India and Pakistan fought a bitter 15-day war over Kashmir in 1965.

FINISHING TOUCHES FOR SIGN

Finishing touches to the sign at the site of the new Crown Zellerbach container plant are made by Mayor R. F. Parkinson, left and Orval Cook, vice-president of pulp and paper sales and converting, right. Looking on are Ray Pascoe, local sales manager and Lyle Dagg, general manager of paper products. The $4,500,000 plant will be located in the Kelowna Industrial Park on Highway 97 North.

Three Shovels Of Dirt Marks Start Of Project

Three shovels of dirt marked today the start of another industrial chapter in Kelowna's growing economy.

The sod-turning ceremony at the Capri today, with all three levels of government, was the official start of a $4,500,000 Crown Zellerbach corrugated container plant.

Actual construction of the plant on a 14-acre site in the Kelowna Industrial Park will begin Monday. Planned to be the most modern box factory in North America, the plant will be built on Highway 97 North east of White Trucks Ltd. and on the north side of Enterprise Way.

Guiding the ceremonies at the Capri was Orval C. Cook, vice-president of pulp and paper sales and converting. He handed a ceremonial shovel to Kelowna Mayor R. F. Parkinson, Bruce Howard, Liberal MP for Okanagan Boundary, and Pat Jordan, the minister-without-portfolio representing Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Cook took Mayor Parkinson and several company officials to the industrial park site to erect a sign announcing the multi-million-dollar project.

Predicting a close co-operation between Crown Zellerbach's new plant and local industry, Mr. Cook had words of thanks for city officials at a reception during the sod-turning festivities.

"At this time we want to formally thank the three levels of government for their excellent co-operation in helping to make our plans possible," he told the small gathering.

The company's starting date was advanced by "a good six months" due to work by Mayor Parkinson and the city hall staff, he said; the plant now hopes to begin producing corrugated containers for the B.C. interior agricultural and industrial markets in mid-1970. Early 1971 was the original target date.

Built with aid from the federal government's Area Development Incentives Act, the plant will have 130,000 square feet of floor area, and include a modern office building with a total of 4,500 square feet. Plant grounds will be landscaped.

The head start on construction, Mr. Cook said, will permit the company to launch a manufacturing market program that can only "result in far greater benefits to Okanagan industries."

"There's been a lot of discussion about new industries coming here—Consumers Glass, a new carpet factory, new jewelry, Hiram Walker, and others—and we all agree they're beneficial to the Okanagan."

Make This Biggest Ever Regatta Residents Urged

With the "biggest Regatta show ever," in the offing this year, "it's up to residents to get busy and help put the thing over," says Dick Gunoff, Director General of the Kelowna International Regatta Association.

Not unmindful of the tremendous community support precipitated by the tragic June 14 fire which destroyed the aquatic waterfront complex, Mr. Gunoff feels the annual classic would be "even more tremendous" with full support from the "whole town" and urges everyone to attend to help make this year's completely new show really the "biggest ever."

Underlying the very survival of the Regatta this year in the aftermath of the Aquatic holocaust was the spirit of "go" from civic, fraternal and business officials, as well as from hundreds of silent community-minded supporters selflessly ready to give their time, labor and confidence to keep the Regatta afloat in the face of a seemingly insurmountable setback.

PEOPLE HELP

"A lot of people did rally round," says Ted Runnalls, Deputy Director General of the Regatta association, "particularly service clubs." Some of the unheralded heroes also include many local business firms such as Crown Zellerbach, which donated much-needed materials toward innumerable urgent rebuilding projects, as did Weldwood of Canada. Local contractors came to the fore with labor and vitally needed construction equipment.

Aquatic embers had hardly cooled when the tidal wave of assistance pledges began to pour in even from such faraway well-wishers as Portland, Ore., Vancouver and Calgary. Sixty anxious people attended an emergency meeting three days after the fire, and Regatta officials met with an equally concerned city council to decide the fate of this year's aquatic classic. Only 48 days remained, seemingly hardly enough time for such monumental questions as whether some events of the Regatta should be dropped or the whole prospect abandoned entirely.

But even while the weighty decisions were being pondered, city residents, organizations, business firms and other agencies already knew the answer and they continued to express their feelings with a deluge of help. The Kelowna Chamber of Commerce, Kelowna Teen Town, together with city service clubs promised to do all they could to help the cause. Meetings were held all over the city with one goal in mind. To keep the Regatta going. The Kelowna Buckaroos, Junior Hockey team pledged all profits from this year's summer hockey game, and the Kelowna Kiwanis Club followed suit. The Kelowna and District Junior Chamber of Commerce came forth with offers to co-ordinate activities and staff manpower needs for any necessary jobs, as well as provide assistance in other possible ways.

The offers of aid were not only welcomed by the Regatta association, but crucially important, as pointed out by Mr. Gunoff.

With time their biggest enemy, Regatta officials worked feverishly to assess the immediate needs necessary to keep this year's aquatic dream alive. A 12-point list of priority requirements was presented to council, with one of the prime requisites being temporary seating facilities to replace those destroyed in the aquatic fire. Regatta finance chairman, Ted Runnalls, estimated an additional $10,000 would be required as operational capital.

Prompted by the practical Regatta association ultimatum, "give us the facilities and we'll give you the show," expressed by R. M. Tall, city council made a hard-cash donation of $12,000 toward the cause and one more boost in the direction of Regatta realization.

Many hands have since provided that determined push upward to a community tradition in distress, and left the imprint of their faith in the hearts of a whole city.

Rutland Man Buried Today

Funeral services were held from Day's Chapel of Remembrance today for Adam Anderson Aird of Rutland, who died Monday at 63 years of age.

Surviving Mr. Aird are one daughter, Matthew, and one son, Nan Aird of Scotland, and several cousins in Canada. Services were conducted by Capt. R. Hetherington of the Salvation Army with cremation following.

Day's Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Cushioncraft Here Aug. 12

Something even more startling than Ogoogo will be seen skimming over Okanagan Lake Aug. 12, but don't run for the gaff and fish net.

The strange aquatic creature is the British CC-7 Cushioncraft, a gas turbine engine, eight to 10 passenger prototype of the English hovercraft soon to go into production in Britain. Using the principle of air duct propulsion for greater maneuverability and more silent operation, the craft is on a demonstration tour across Canada and will arrive in the city via trailer from Edmonton. It will be demonstrated at the Eldorado Arms Hotel, Okanagan Mission, from 12 to 2 p.m.

The craft will be demonstrated at Penticton that same day around 3:30 p.m. to invited guests in front of the chamber of commerce pavilion on Lakeshore Drive.

Five Films Set For City Park

Five films produced by the National Film Board will be presented at dusk Sunday in the City Park Oval by the Kelowna Film Council.

The films are: Blessing on the Woods, a tribute to the beauty of Nova Scotia's woodlands; Kurelek, a film document of the village life of the Ukraine as the painter William Kurelek remembers it; Poen, a prose poem read by Leonard Cohen with a movie camera giving accompanying pictures, a surrealistic effect; Folk Dance, a selection of folk dances performed at the CNE; and Islah, a film exploring the faith of the Muslims.

Films shown throughout the summer months by the Film Council are free of charge.

SEEN and HEARD

A boy on a residential street, Thursday was thoroughly enjoying himself in the blazing July sun when he was struck in the ear by a snowball that sent him tumbling off his bike. Stunned and angry the boy jumped up and chased after his assailant that proved to be his younger brother who had collected a pile of "snow" from the inside of his mother's refrigerator while she was defrosting it. The older brother seized a quantity of the frost and before long neighbors were gaping out their windows at a full fledged snowball fight in the middle of an Okanagan summer.

A girl walking down Bernard Avenue, Thursday, lived up to that old "be prepared" motto of the boy scouts. While mounting a curb she snapped off the low heel of her shoe. Unperturbed she calmly reached into her over-sized handbag and pulled out a pair of thongs. She slipped them on, dropped the damaged shoes into the bag and continued on down the street.

Kelowna court will no longer have a magistrate. Instead of being arraigned before Magistrate D. M. White defendants will now face Judge D. M. White. A provincial ruling, effective today, phases out the title of magistrate, replacing it with provincial judge. There was some confusion in court today as prosecutors and defence counsel, accustomed to saying "your worship" hesitated briefly and stammered "your honor."

Good Travel Tips Heard Check Those Tires First

Those old, balding tires may be safe for driving around town, but they can mean death at high speeds on a highway.

With heavy traffic and hot weather, tires are expected to perform to extreme demands, magistrate D. M. White, chairman of the Kelowna and District Safety Council warned today.

"The combination of high speeds and hot weather increases both the temperature and pressure within tires," magistrate White warned. He pointed out that tires lose much of their friction when pavement is hot; one effect of this is to increase effective stopping distance.

But most important, he said, is to make sure your tires are in perfect shape before a highway trip. Tires with worn treads and any kind of sidewall or other damage may fail under the constant demand of high speed.

Here are several tire safety pointers from the safety council:

- Check all tires, including new ones, for tread depth, cuts or bruises; replace worn or damaged tires before the trip.
- Check for uneven wear; this indicates wheel balancing and alignment may be off which could further damage tires and affect steering.
- Check tire pressure; inflate to manufacturer's recommended pressure, or raise it a few pounds for the trip; always check pressure when tires are cool.
- If replacement tires are needed, contact a reputable dealer or service station.

CUTS AND BRUISES

A Kelowna motorcyclist has escaped with cuts and bruises after being involved in a "head-on collision" at the corner of Lawrence Avenue and Abbott Street about 12:10 a.m. today.

There were no injuries to passengers in the car, driven by James Bennett of Kelowna, when it collided with the motorcycle driven by Gregory Brunette.

An estimated $500 damage was done in the mishap.

Sentimental Trip For 'Cap' Capozzi

Well-known local businessman, 'Cap' Capozzi, will leave the city today at 6 p.m., on another sentimental journey to the town of his birth, Santo Stefano del Sole, Italy.

Only this time the trip will be more than a sojourn to renew old acquaintanceships. He is going to his native village just outside Milan to present a set of bronze doors to the bishop of the diocese who will accept the gift on behalf of the town church. Mr. Capozzi had the doors specially cast in his native home town for the occasion. The last of the male Capozzis in the village, he will visit relatives during his stay.

Accompanied by a nephew, Mr. Capozzi will fly from Vancouver to Preswick, Scotland, on a Son's of Scotland charter aircraft. With him, besides the 100-odd "clansmen" off to visit the Scottish Isle, will be 11 other Italians from Kelowna, all of whom are friends of Mr. Capozzi. He last visited the town of his birth in 1928 and again in 1951.

Best Possible Packaging

"We're going to see that these industries get the best possible packaging, service and marketing assistance available," the manager said.

Packaging for fruit products, the Valley's biggest industry, will be the main concern of the company, he stressed.

"Crown Zellerbach has been part of the fruit industry's development here for the past 30 years or so, and we've seen some fantastic packaging and marketing changes," Mr. Cook said.

WORLD MARKET

Thirty years ago, he pointed out, marketing for local growers meant a roadside stand or a gentleman's agreement with the grocer in town. Today, the world is the grower's market place.

"We've also seen corrugated containers come to the fore—we think it's because they provide the most efficient, economical form of packaging, good protection for the product, and excellent product identification features."

"This year," he added, "and we're naturally delighted to see this—almost the entire agricultural crop in the Okanagan will be marketed in corrugated containers."

But this is just the beginning, Mr. Cook predicted. "Much more can be done to provide better merchandising and greater product identification; much can be learned about packaging from other industries, for use by the fruit industry."

"We've long been aware of this, and we've worked closely with the industry on adapting packaging techniques."

Mr. Cook also introduced the behind-the-scenes company of officials who have nursed the project from its first planning stages to the sod-turning ceremony. Les Roadhouse, now retired; Ray Pascoe, the local paper products' district manager; Ernie Cripps and Maurice Lenglet, who worked with Mr. Pascoe; and George Pearson, general manager for CZ building materials in the Okanagan, were some of the names he mentioned.

EXPANDING

Crown Zellerbach, which also operates a paper products sales office, distribution centre and lumber and plywood manufacturing plant here, has not limited its expansion to Kelowna. The company recently purchased a large lumber mill in the Vernon area. This brings the firm's interest in the Valley to a total of four lumber mills, the plywood plant and the new corrugated box factory here, as well as its sales outlets.

With an annual payroll in the Okanagan already totalling more than $5,000,000 Crown Zellerbach will initially hire 40 men for the new plant.

TWO BREAK-INS

RCMP are investigating two breaking and entering incidents and an attempted safe-cracking in Kelowna during the night.

Nothing was believed taken from an office at 1185 Glenmore St. where thieves broke in and attempted to open the safe.

An estimated $50 was stolen when thieves entered the Mountain Shadows office during the night and there are no details available in a breaking and entering at Knox Clinic.

Short Takes

Up to now we have only had one intersection where left-hand turns have been barred during rush hours. Now, apparently we are about to have several more. Admittedly something new should be tried and the banning of left turns during rush hours is probably the easiest and cheapest. The ultimate solution at some of our tricky corners could well be the 30-second advance green light for left turn traffic. It is used successfully in many cities and it does seem as though it could relieve traffic problems at some of our corners. And now that the school kids no longer stop the flow of traffic on Harvey, the Harvey-Ellis intersection, allowing cars to make a turn, there is definite need of a light at that intersection.

Sault Saint Marie in Ontario has passed an anti-loitering bylaw setting $300 fines for those profane and obviously dirty individuals who jostle people on the streets, block doorways and mouth obscenities at passersby. While a criminal record is too severe a penalty for minor sidewalk infractions, an anti-loitering bylaw, that requires only evidence of loitering, could serve a useful purpose.

A driver, turned off by the avalanche of glassware being offered at gas stations these days, says "the companies seem determined to give you anything but lower prices." He patronizes a station that concentrates on service and no gimmicks.

When Wendy Michener, the distinguished movie critic and daughter of our governor-general, died suddenly in January in Toronto, neither her husband nor her parents were informed of the gravity of her illness. Within a few hours of entering hospital, she was dead. Yet no one had told her husband that she was even seriously ill. The shock of the unexpected death of anyone cannot be exaggerated. If doctors or nurses suspect that a patient is about to die, they should try to make sure that the next-of-kin are informed as soon as possible. Governor-General Michener has taken this important matter up with Ontario's chief coroner and as a direct result hospitals in that province have been requested to improve their system of communication with the families of patients. In the case of desperately ill patients, their families, if informed in time, could, if they wished, call in specialists. There are times, of course, when circumstances make it difficult for families to be advised, but hospitals should always give high priority to the feelings of the loved ones of the desperately ill or dying. Most of them already do, but there are tragic exceptions.

The most frequent criticism one hears about the U.S. space program is its costs. Always coupled with it is a remark to the effect that the money could be used to better advantage here on earth. Perhaps. But how much is $5 billion a year, the amount the U.S. space program has cost over the past ten years. $5 billion is less than half the $12.3 billion the Americans spend on liquor each year. $5 billion is less than the $7.9 billion Americans spend on tobacco products each year. $5 billion is less than the $5.5 billion the U.S. spends on welfare programs each year; less than the $5.3 billion a year spent in the U.S. on radios, TV and records; less than the $5.2 billion spent each year in the U.S. for footwear.

Idea For Poor Drivers

(Calgary Herald)

There is considerable merit in an Ontario judge's submission that psychiatric examinations could be used to keep poor drivers off the roads.

The proposal of provincial judge William Woodliffe of Sudbury may seem provocative, but it certainly deserves a more open-minded response than that shown by Ontario's deputy transport minister, W. G. MacInnes.

Mr. MacInnes bluntly dismissed the judge's scheme as being unworkable. How does he know, until the scheme is tried?

What Judge Woodliffe proposed in an article written for Chitty's Law Journal, is that motorists who collect ten demerit points for traffic violations in Ontario should be forced to visit a psychiatrist. If they fail a psychiatric examination, the transport department should be empowered to suspend their licences for as long as deemed necessary.

This makes a lot of sense. Bad driving attitudes contribute to the vast majority of traffic accidents. And bad driving attitudes whether they manifest themselves in the form of aggressiveness, timidity or even habitual carelessness, quite probably reflect psychological disturbance.

This situation poses a constant menace on the streets and highways, and Judge Woodliffe's suggestion represents a radical but sincere idea for coping with a major problem.

Therefore, it shouldn't be shot down in flames without proper consideration. Mr. MacInnes dismisses the scheme as unworkable on the grounds that 25,000 Ontario motorists reach nine demerit points every year and there aren't sufficient doctors and money to carry out the psychiatric examinations the judge proposes.

But surely the deputy minister's reference to 25,000 errant motorists is, in itself, an alarming admission of the gravity of the problem. Because the means of implementing Judge Woodliffe's proposal are not readily available, does this mean the problem should continue to be ignored?

Certainly, the psychiatric examinations recommended could be launched immediately, if only on a limited basis. This, at least, would be a start, and also would help determine the value of the judge's proposal. Traffic safety is too big a problem for any possible remedy to be dismissed out of hand.

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

AN IMPORTANT OFFICIAL POSITION IN EARLY CANADA

Canada Needs More Power To Feed Rapid Expansion

By ARNIE HAKALA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada is faced with an unprecedented demand for electrical energy to feed its growing population and industry.

There is an abundance of the raw resources needed for electricity—water, coal, petroleum, uranium. But the demand doubles every 10 years.

The country's electrical generating capacity this year is about 35,000,000 kilowatts. By 1970, it is predicted 70,000,000 kilowatts will be needed.

To satisfy the demands of the next few years, generating stations with a capacity of more than 27,000,000 kilowatts are under construction across the country, a Canadian Press Cross-Canada Survey shows.

Most of the stations, being built at a cost of more than $5,000,000, will be ready for operation by 1975.

George Gathercole, chairman of Ontario Hydro and president of the Canadian Nuclear Association, forecast Canada's future electrical needs in a speech to the association's annual meeting in Montreal last June.

MUST EXPAND FAST

He said Canada will need about 250,000,000 kilowatts of new generating capacity during the next 30 years.

"This is based upon an annual growth of approximately seven per cent in electrical demands," which means generating capacity must be doubled approximately every 10 or 11 years.

The methods of making electricity are relatively simple.

Basically, water, either in its pure state or condensed as steam, is used to turn turbines hooked to generators which create an electrical current.

There are three methods. The first, and perhaps simplest, is by using falling water to turn the turbines.

The second, thermal generation, uses coal, oil or gas to heat water. The water turns to steam and the steam is compressed and forced against the turbines, causing them to spin.

Nuclear generation employs nuclear fissioning of uranium as a source of heat which also changes water into steam to drive the turbines.

In most cases, Canadian provinces determine the source of power they use by the availability of their raw resources.

USE NUCLEAR POWER

For instance, British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec use their large rivers, and the Prairies and the Maritimes, with large deposits of coal or gas, use thermal generation.

In 1969, about two-thirds of Canada's electrical power was produced by the hydroelectric method. However, projects under construction show a swing to thermal and nuclear stations.

Ontario now is the only province with nuclear stations which produce 200,000 kilowatts. They are located at Douglas Point, near Port Elgin on Lake Huron, and an experimental station on the Ottawa River.

However, under construction are a 3,200,000-kilowatt station near Douglas Point, a 2,160,000-kilowatt plant near Oshawa, Ont., and the Gentilly nuclear plant with a capacity of 250,000 kilowatts near Trois-Rivières, Que.

Mr. Gathercole, in a special Ontario Hydro report on nuclear power, represents a capital investment of $783,000,000—more than twice that of a comparable coal-fired installation.

"Current estimates of performance suggest, however, that once in operation the nuclear unit quickly moves ahead on a cost basis."

Two of the largest undertakings for electrical power have been the Peace River project in British Columbia and the Churchill Falls station in Labrador.

The Peace River project in north-central B.C., 460 miles north of Vancouver started in 1961. It will provide 2,270,000 kilowatts of power by 1972. The first five of 10 227,000-kilowatt units went into operation in 1968.

The $725,000,000 cost figure included two 500,000-volt transmission lines running 550 miles to the lower British Columbia mainland.

The Churchill Falls plant, to cost $850,000,000, will come into production with the first of 11 generators in 1972.

ONTARIO NEEDS MOST

Ontario, with 34 per cent of Canada's population and 50 per cent of the country's manufactured goods, has by far the greatest need of all provinces for electricity.

While several Northern Ontario rivers are being studied for possible sites of hydroelectric plants, Ontario Hydro is concentrating much of its efforts on the development of nuclear-powered stations.

For instance, the nuclear station planned near Douglas Point will be the second largest of its kind in the world, exceeded only by one being built by the Tennessee Valley Authority in the United States. Quebec, the second largest user of power, is studying the possibility of generating 5,230,000 kilowatts at the south end of James Bay.

Surveys have been conducted on the Nottaway, Broadback and Rupert rivers.

Under construction in Quebec are two hydroelectric plants, Manic 5 and Outardes 4 on the Manicouagan and Outardes rivers.

Manic 5, to start producing in 1970 or 1971, will have a capacity of 1,322,400 kilowatts, and Outardes 4, scheduled to begin operation Dec. 1 this year, will produce 632,000 kilowatts.

DOUBLES IN DECADE

Hydro-Quebec figures the province's power needs double every eight to 10 years and that by 1989 it will need 36,000,000 kilowatts, 27,000,000 more than it now has.

Until recently, British Columbia Hydro has been contemplating construction of a nuclear generating station on Vancouver Island but the Kaiser coal development in the Kootenay district has made thermal power more attractive.

A B.C. energy board forecast showed the province's requirements to be 20,000,000 kilowatts compared to the 1968 demand of 4,000,000. British Columbia is also undertaking a direct current submarine power link between the mainland and Vancouver Island, believed to be the first of its kind in the Western Hemisphere.

Alberta, with its large deposits of coal, is constructing four thermal stations at a total cost of $118,000,000.

J. G. MacGregor, chairman of the Alberta Power Commission, said "coal and gas are so cheap we can't afford to build power plants."

PLENTY OF COAL

In Saskatchewan, a Saskatchewan Power Corp. spokesman said nuclear generation has never been considered because of abundant natural resources.

He said the coal fields in the Estevan region have enough coal to power stations for at least 100 years. The potash industry is using 10 per cent of the power.

In Manitoba, one of the major developments has been a 500-mile transmission line which will carry power from the Churchill River area to the southern part of the province.

The plant, Kettle generating station at Kettle Rapids, is being built at a cost of $495,000,000 and will supply 1,224,000 kilowatts.

The first four of 12 units will be operational by 1971.

The major development in New Brunswick is located 14 miles north of Fredericton on the St. John River where a new hydroelectric station provides 300,000 kilowatts.

MIGHT HARNESSTIDES

The province has also taken steps to link its power systems with those of Quebec and Maine.

H. Graham Crocker, chairman of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission, said an agreement with Maine would result in "more rational use of generating capacities" and would be well co-ordinated with the New Brunswick-Quebec link which is expected to be completed by 1972.

Nova Scotia, with two thermal stations will provide an additional 230,000 kilowatts to the current production of 655,861.

In Prince Edward Island, where no new stations are being constructed, a spokesman for Maritime Electric Ltd. said the island is still hoping for a causeway which would facilitate a power hook-up with the mainland.

Newfoundland's major project is the Churchill project in Labrador. Also planned are another 450,000 kilowatts in two stations with construction to be completed by 1970.

CANADA'S STORY

Riel Found Guilty Of Treason Charge

By BOB ROWMAN

Politically, and perhaps historically, Aug. 1, 1885, was a fateful day in Canada. Six Protestant, English-speaking jurymen in a Regina courtroom pronounced Louis Riel guilty of treason. They recommended mercy, but Hugh Richardson, the magistrate sentenced him to hang.

Since then politics in Canada have not been the same. History needs more time to tell if the flames of English-French conflict were fanned to such an extent that they may never be extinguished.

Riel was defended by four lawyers provided by Quebec. Strangely, they did not contend that Riel could not be guilty of treason because he had become a citizen of the U.S. Instead, they tried to prove that Riel was insane, but Riel would have none of this. "Between the Red River uprising in 1870 and 1878 when he went to the U.S. Riel was a patient in mental hospitals in Montreal and Quebec under the assumed names of Louis R. David and Louis Larochelle."

Four doctors were brought from the east to testify that he was sane although he suffered from megalomania.

The trial began on July 20 officially but was adjourned to bring the doctors from the east, and did not really begin until July 28. Despite the counsel for the prosecution and defence in their wigs and robes, and the Mounties in their red coats standing at either side of the prisoner, Riel was the outstanding figure. Finally the members of the jury had to make up their minds whether or not Riel had stirred up and led an armed rebellion. The answer to the question was "yes" and so the verdict was "guilty" and no recommendation for mercy.

The hanging was postponed several times because appeals came from many parts of Canada and other parts of the world. Eventually Sir John A. Macdonald said "He shall hang though every dog in Quebec bark in his favor" and the execution took place in Regina on Nov. 16.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Sen. McCarthy To Stay 'Free'

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Sen. McCarthy's announcement that he will not seek reelection as senator next year and that he is retiring from public was made after Sen. Edward Kennedy's chances of ever becoming president sank with an Oldsmobile car at a summer resort. Thus, no one will be able to say that Sen. McCarthy left politics because he knew he could not take the nomination from Edward Kennedy. In 1972, with the Vietnam war over, as Nixon plainly intends that it will be over, the old guard of the Democratic party, the Mayor Daleys, might well have given the presidential nomination to McCarthy, if only to have him buried politically by an incumbent president who would have given the Americans the peace they long for abroad and the law and order they want at home. That the majority which will approve of peace in Vietnam and the majority which will approve of law and order at home may not be composed of the same people does not matter: it will be a clear majority in both cases. So Mayor Daley might well have consented to let Eugene McCarthy die politically, fighting that majority.

ABLE CAMPAIGNER

Would he have died? McCarthy has proved he is a surprisingly able campaigner. He had strong appeal for the pro-law-and-order suburbanites and middle class whites. He avoided touring ghettos. Negroes did not really like him, even though young white students who favor integration did.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

She Was Victim Of Motorbike Gang

By DR. GEORGE THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was raped by 10 guys in a motor-cycle gang last year. Two days afterward, I went to a doctor for a checkup, and took it that I was all right.

But since it happened I have been having a heavy discharge and sometimes I itch quite a bit. I have tried everything and have been taking a douche every other week but nothing helps. Could you please give me any idea what would be causing it and what I could do for it? I am 18—V.M.

Pretty clearly it is some sort of infection. It could be gonorrhea, although more likely it is a different type of infection in the vagina caused by a parasite called trichomonas.

This is a tiny organism, too small to see without a microscope. It does not invade the body tissues as bacteria do. Rather, being a parasite, it merely lives and flourishes on the surface.

That's the body's defense against germs—the white blood cells—cannot attack the parasite. Unless effectively treated, the itching can continue indefinitely.

What you must do is go back to the doctor. Such infection may not be apparent two days after an attack, but will show five to 10 days later.

Remind the doctor of what happened. It is possible that he will have to make tests of the discharge to determine whether trichomonas or some other organism is present. He then can prescribe an effective medication. Your periodic douching will not get rid of the problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write full information about osteoarthritis. I am not sure this is spelled right, but I cannot find it in the dictionary. I know this is the crippling kind.

—B.W.B.
You just dropped an extra letter in it—it's osteoarthritis, not "ostero". And don't jump to the conclusion that it is "the crippling kind." Rather, it is like him. He could have made something out of that. He could have been the candidate who inspires the young to abandon their weird ways and to work within the system: he did it last year; they shaved clean for Gene. He could have done it again.

But he has resigned and one should be inclined to take his resignation at face value; it should not be considered as a political trick. Though he might be persuaded to enter the 1972 presidential primaries, this is most unlikely. Sen. McCarthy has long known that the political process bores him, especially the electoral process. He has proved that, if he wants, he can belong in the big league. But he does not want to—that is the point.

He found out in last year's campaigns that the price was one he was not prepared to pay: he is an intensely private man and does not relish the degree of scrutiny a national race involves. Running for senator in one state does not require very much sacrifice in privacy for so formidable a campaigner as McCarthy. He could be a public man in his state and still be private. But despite his defeat last year, he remained a national figure, a potential presidential nominee and with that he lost his freedom.

He cherishes his freedom, especially the freedom to speak out without any political reservations or calculations. He is not prepared to forego this freedom and without foregoing it he cannot be president. And being less than president is no longer sufficient reward for being in politics.

a slow, wear-and-tear type of arthritis, not usually crippling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My brother had surgery for cancer of the prostate and since then has been taking a capsule called Tace. Is it a hormone, and are there any side effects?—W.T.

Tace is a potent medication which, while not exactly a hormone, has the same effects as the female hormone estrogen, and is used for the same purpose—prostatic cancer, menopause, suppression of lactation.

Its side effects, if any, are those of estrogen which used in a male, chiefly enlargement of breast tissue and lessening of sexual vigor. In cases such as the one you cite it relieves the patient's discomfort very considerably.

Dr. Thosteson: Can pernicious anemia be controlled or cured? I had never heard of it until recently.—Mrs. E.J.P.

Controlled, yes; cured, no. It can be very readily and effectively controlled by periodic injections of vitamin B-12.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is taking a glycerin suppository once or twice a week injurious to health? I am in my 60s.

—F.M.
No, that won't harm you.

NOTE TO MRS. A.K.: Your physician may or may not prescribe medication or certain diet restrictions to retard formation of kidney stones. There's one thing you can do yourself: Make it a point to drink plenty of liquids every day.

Note to Mrs. L.G.: Taking huge amounts of vitamin C won't help arthritis, and it won't ward off colds, because the body, once it has sufficient vitamin C for its needs, discards the rest.

Winners And Prize Draw At Rutland Flower Show

RUTLAND (Special) — The Rutland Women's Institute held a successful flower show on Wednesday, their 52nd annual show.

Held in the basement hall of St. Theresa's Church, the event was well attended by local people and Kelowna residents.

Entries in most classes were numerous, but some classes had no entries, especially in the dahlia and chrysanthemum classes.

Rutland's little May Queen, Gail Hayashi, opened the show and in a short speech welcomed the gathering and wished the show success.

Little Gail was presented with a sheaf of gladioli by the convenor of the flower show, Mrs. Flora Barber.

Afternoon tea was served by a committee headed by Mrs. R. E. Gunner.

In Cold Blood May Be Plot

SAO JOSE DOS CAMPOS (AP) — Police in this Brazilian settlement are piecing together the details of the slaying of four elderly brothers and sisters in a case that seems to rival the In Cold Blood murders.

Hermann, Arthur, Elina and Elza Kubitzky—aged 76, 74, 72 and 68—were found shot dead in the farm home in which they lived together. Police said the motive was robbery.

The Kubitzkys were the children of German immigrants who settled in Sao Jose Dos Campos, which is between Sao Paul and Rio de Janeiro, near the end of the 19th century.

The Kubitzkys never married and had no close friends. They owned land and a few buildings and earned day-by-day spending money by selling eggs and chickens they raised.

Mistrust and suspicion surrounded their lives. To everyone else in Sao Jose dos Campos, the Kubitzkys were "the Germans." Many people believed the Kubitzkys were hoarding large sums of money. Hermann Kubitzky sometimes lent money—with interest—and this helped reinforce the image.

Police say this gossip undoubtedly seached the ears of four young men who had been in and out of trouble with the law for many years.

Police identify them as Luis Carlos Feria, 23, Luis Roberto, 18, Levi Bernardo de Andrade, 17, and Ademir Bueno, 16.

New Image For Courts

VANCOUVER (CP) — Magistrate's courts in British Columbia have a new image under the new Provincial Court Act which becomes effective today.

"This new image will enhance the principle of separation of the judiciary from the executive or police and will uplift the morale of the judicial institution," says Senior Magistrate James Bartman of Vancouver, who becomes a district judge under terms of the Act.

"In my opinion, this separation will contribute to a more efficient administration of justice."

Under the Act, magistrates become provincial judges responsible to 11 district judges who handle the administrative affairs of their districts.

District judges will have complete jurisdiction over justices of the peace, court clerks and others connected with the functions of the lower courts. However, municipalities will continue to foot the bill and collect revenue from fines.

The responsibilities of a district judge are expanded to include family and children's court and the small debts court.

The Provincial Court Act eliminates the need for both the Magistrate's Act and the Family and Children's Court Act and changes the Small Debts Court Act to the Small Claims Act.

HIT BY CAR

Disaster Strikes Again At Westbank Post Office

WESTBANK (Special) — The Westbank Post Office has had another catastrophe, when a car proceeding down First Avenue nearly collided with a car coming from Kelowna last night. The car swerved to avoid the collision and ran into the wall of concrete around the garden and then into the door and corner of the Post Office. It was a "real mess" and the post mistress and post master were "up all night" trying to clear debris.

This office has been most unfortunate through the years, there have been at least three such accidents here since the

MODERN MOSAIC CENTRE

A row of shops and apartments faces a quiet and classically-designed courtyard at Mosaic Enterprises on St. Paul Street. Workmen have put the finishing touches on the red brick, wood and concrete flagstone court yard and the businessmen are moving into their glass-fronted shops. On the second floor, luxury apartments have individual balconies facing the well-landscaped court yard. The owners say eventually the buildings will surround the centre court on four sides, leaving a plant and fountain-filled quadrangle for customers and apartment dwellers to rest in the sun or shade.

NFU On Hunt For Recruits Now To Look Out For HQ City

WINNIPEG (CP) — The National Farmers Union, full of fight and with a recruiting drive afoot, turns its attention today to the selection of a headquarters city.

The closed deliberations follow the hoopla of a two-day founding convention which ended Thursday with a call from NFU President Roy Atkinson of Saskatoon for the rank-and-file to organize from "sea to sea" in the coming year.

NFU sources said the 21-member board of directors will most likely choose Winnipeg or Ottawa as the nerve-centre of the seven-province organization.

The farmers unions of the Maritimes, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia all have surrendered their separate identities to bring the direct-membership NFU into being as a bargaining agent with the muscle of interprovincial unity.

Mr. Atkinson said in his presidential address that the NFU, with the base that has been formed here and with all-out organization, has the potential to become "the most powerful organization in the Dominion of Canada."

He bristled in his pep-rally-style sendoff to delegates at an interview statement by Saskatchewan provincial Treasurer D. G. Stewart that the NFU is "nothing more than a front for the New Democratic Party."

STRESSES IDENTITY

"We're an extension of nobody but ourselves," he said. "Let them know that."

"Politicians never act; they react; let's make them react."

The NFU constitution which was approved Wednesday says, "The union shall not have any political affiliation, and shall be non-partisan in politics."

The 45-year-old Mr. Atkinson, who headed the loose coalition of provincial farm unions that was the old NFU, was elected by acclamation Thursday after Ontario's Walter Miller threw his support to the westerner.

Subsequently, Mr. Miller, 44-year-old Ontario farm union president, was elected to the national vice-presidency; also by acclamation after three western delegates who had been nominated withdrew.

Mr. Atkinson is a grain farmer at Landis, Sask., while Mr. Miller has a beef farm at Tara, Ont., near Owen Sound.

In declining to seek the presidency, Mr. Miller said that, aside from his belief that Mr. Atkinson was the man for the job, he did not intend to take any action that might have the effect of sending delegates out of the convention divided. Saskatchewan sent the biggest delegate force to the convention, 382 out of a total 852, while Ontario was next with 230. There were 112 delegates from Manitoba, 28 from the Maritimes and 25 from B.C.

Slip Causes Man's Death

QUESNEL (CP) Joseph P. Flamme, 35, of Quesnel was killed in an industrial accident Thursday at a work site 30 miles southwest of this Cariboo community. Police said he slipped and was crushed under a front-end loader.

YOUTH COMMITTED

VICTORIA (CP)—James Raymond Puffer, 20, of Aldergrove was committed to Riverview mental hospital Thursday by the provincial cabinet after attempting to murder his brother in Langley. His brother, Daniel, suffered gunshot wounds in June.

VOTE TODAY

SKOOKUMCHUCK (CP) — About 160 men employed at the Crestbrook pulp mill at this East Kootenay community vote today and Saturday on whether to retain the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada as bargaining agents. The International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, which lost a jurisdictional battle here last year, is contesting the certification.

NEW FACILITIES

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia is adding an old $100,000 home for adult studies and a $1,000,000 pre-fabricated office building to its facilities this month. The home is the 15-room presidential mansion which president Walter Gage said he did not require. The pre-fabricated building will provide 130 offices for faculty members and replace a row of wartime army huts.

SEARCH CONTINUES

KIMBERLEY (CP)—A search over ranchland near here for Philip Porter, 16, missing since June 26, was to enter its fifth day today. Police, who fear the youth may be a victim of foul play, this week arrested Earl K. Bennett at a cabin in the search area and charged him with attempting to extort $100,000 in ransom money from the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robin M. Porter.

Slim Diet Sought

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Heart Foundation and the University of Toronto are looking for overweight Canadians for a slim-and-stay-slim diet program to start in October.

The research program will take four groups of 20 men and women not more than 50 pounds overweight—for a three-month course designed to re-organize eating habits so the individual can lose weight and keep it off. Dr. Barbara McLaren, dean of the university's faculty of food sciences, said the levels of cholesterol, magnesium and vitamin A in the blood will be checked in an attempt to find out how they are related to heart attacks and dietary problems.

Applicants must be between 20 and 55 years old, 20 to 50 pounds overweight, and have at least Grade 9 education. The courses will involve one hour a week at the food sciences faculty, with a two-week break at Christmas to observe how well course members stand up to the festivities.

Dr. McLaren said vitamin A levels are being checked because autopsy studies carried out by a Canadian researcher have shown that liver specimens of persons living in major cities across the country have abnormally low stores of vitamin A.

ANN LANDERS

Telescope Tom Will Get Tired

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago my husband bought a telescope to study the stars—he said. After the fourth night he lost interest in the sky and is now studying other "heavenly bodies." We live in an apartment which is ideally situated for his new hobby. He hurries through dinner, races to the window and stays there four or five hours at a time.

Last week he invited three of the boys from the office to enjoy the fun. He was quite disappointed because his two best subjects for observation (he calls them Venus and Mars) were not at home. He promised the boys he'd invite them back.

I am disgusted with him and he knows it. I am concerned that he might be breaking the law. I've heard of men arrested as Peeping Toms. Please inform me. — Just Looking, Thanks.

Dear Just: So long as Tom stays in his own apartment he cannot be arrested. In the meantime, be patient, dearie. Tom will tire of his hobby after a while. Growing up takes time.

Dear Ann: A distant relative of mine who is going through the menopause is acting very oddly. Six weeks ago she telephoned at 2:00 a.m. and asked, "Are you all right?" I said, "Yes, of course." She then related a terrible dream she had in which I was murdered. That was the end of my night's sleep.

A week later she telephoned at 6:00 a.m. and asked if I had called her. I said, "No." She then explained that her phone had rung and she heard a scream that sounded like my voice.

This past week she has telephoned five times, accused me of calling her and not speaking, just breathing into the phone. I'm sure the woman needs a psychiatrist. In the meantime I'm going to need one, too, if she doesn't quit bothering me. Any suggestions?

Pestered By A Nut
Dear Pes: Suggest that she see a doctor and get help. Then help yourself by getting an unlisted telephone number. It costs nothing.

If you have out-of-town guests, have taken a trip, entertained or other items of social interest, please submit it to The Courier. In Okanagan Mission phone Mrs. William Haskett at 764-4212 or call the women's editor at The Courier, 762-4445.

John Huston A Free Soul

NEW YORK (AP) — John Huston is a free soul in an age of anxiety.

In 63 years of living crammed with variety and excitement he has been a boxer, lieutenant with the Mexican cavalry, painter, folksinger, screen writer, actor and film director. "I've never had any goal except the immediate one, whatever that might be," he remarked. "Now I just make pictures, ride horses, collect paintings and regrets, and have the best time I can."

"Most of my regrets, however, are of such a private nature that they would hardly bear either repetition or printing."

Huston, leathery-faced and lanky as a cowboy, has had a lark in helping spend more than $50,000,000 of other people's money while making 29 films. They include such memorable ones as The Maltese Falcon, the Treasure of the Sierra Madre, The African Queen and The Bible.

A FAMILY AFFAIR

"I believe I'm the only one in film history who has directed himself, his father, and his daughter," he said.

His famous father, Walter Huston, appeared in The Treasure of the Sierra Madre. His daughter, Anjelica, 18, stars in the soon-to-be released A Walk with Love and Death, and John has gone before the camera in several of his films, including his latest, The Kremlin Letter, a spy thriller.

Asked which member of his family was the best actor, John smiled and said:

"There's no question about that—it was Dad."

"The only time I act is when I can't get anyone else for the role. And as an actor I'm always in accord with the director—when I'm the director."

Between film chores Huston spends most of his time tally-hoing behind foxhounds on his 100-acre estate in Galway, Ireland.

"I'm also interested in the creation of an Irish film industry. They're just about to embark on it, and I'd like to direct some Irish films next."

Keely Smith Splits With Her Third

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Keely Smith has won a divorce by default from James Bowen, a composer and record producer, whom she accused of mistreating her. Miss Smith, 41, was granted a decree Tuesday after testifying that Bowen drank excessively, occasionally struck her and often screamed at her. Bowen, 31, was the singer's third husband. They were married four years.

But He Knows What's Said

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — He says his English is "very bad," yet he seems to know everything that is going on—in any language.

Jean Paul Belmondo gives that impression. He is cut from the classic pattern of movie hero who seems able to handle anything—foreign languages, nefarious villains, beautiful babes. It is not surprising that his heroes include the indelible leading men of films.

"After the liberation of France, I went to the movies all the time," he remarks. "The actors I admired were Bogart, Cagney, Cooper, Tracy. Great personalities. Real stars."

The French star is most often associated with Humphrey Bogart, largely because of the affectionate reference to Bogie in Belmondo's first success, Breathless. There is little resemblance otherwise, except that both actors possessed handsome-ugly features and anti-hero attitudes.

FIRST HOLLYWOOD FILM

Since Breathless, a landmark in the French cinema, Belmondo has appeared in 45 films over a decade's time—"too many," he admits. Recently he was making his first film in Hollywood—Aga, A Love Story. Actually, it is more French than American, since the director is Claude Lelouch (A Man and a Woman). He is taking the company from here to Las Vegas, Monument Valley, Ariz., New Orleans and New York to depict America as seen through French eyes.

Why hasn't Belmondo made films here before?

"Because my English is too bad," he declared. He never has taken the time to study the language, although he has picked up a pretty fair knowledge on a social basis. Including, no doubt, from his steady date, Ursula Andress.

Rest Is Silence A Worrying Bit

TORONTO (CP) — One thing that makes folk singer Bruce Mackay nervous at film screenings is the silence. And a recent one at the National Film Board was no exception.

"You show the film and it's over; the lights go on and then there's this silence," said the 24-year-old resident of St. Andrews East, Que. after the preview of his first film, a seven-minute short called—The Half-Masted Schooner.

It is a one-man effort, combining his abilities as a poet, musician and film-maker. The song, which gives its title to the film, was on his last album. The words are similar to those in the early works of Bob Dylan—they don't seem to make sense.

Also the images on the screen often seem to have no relation to the lyrics of the song. The film is psychedelic, with images not easily recognized and sometimes double or triple exposure is used.

SHOW IN NY

Mackay said he has shown the film in New York and the National Film Board bought it. He said one man wants to sell it to a soft-drink company because it includes the name of the drink, or to the Presbyterian Church because it contains the word "faith."

A new technique used by Mackay in the film is photographing slides covered with transparent adhesive tape through a filter which produces strange flickering colors.

"I've finally got myself to a place where what I want to happen can happen," said Mackay, now working on a third album. "I'm very happy about that."

MUSEUM NOTES

Tobacco Scent Lingers Still

By PRIMROSE UPTON

In a case in the Kelowna Museum are a number of reminders of an almost forgotten industry in the Okanagan—the growing of tobacco. Photographs show the cold frames in use following seeding and transplanting, and the elaborate system of muslin shades for the growing plants. Also in the case are the spears which were attached to the end of laths on racks in the field. The tobacco wagon gathered these in and took them to the curing barns. There is a cigar trimmer and a tobacco cutter, the latter used in the Lequime store. A tobacco box, a typical spittoon, a presentation cigar, Kelowna Pride Tobacco tin, several pipes, and some expensive advertising are also shown.

Tobacco growing was started in this area in 1894 by John Collins and Louis Holman. They had a large field opposite the Lequime Store on the Benvoulin Road. With the setting up of a cigar factory, many more fields were planted to tobacco, barns built for curing. Few of these barns remain, but they were well known landmarks for many, many years.

It was in March, 1898, that the Kelowna Shippers Union Co. Ltd., entered into contract with Collins and Holman, and decided to employ a foreman for a cigar factory. He was William Wolz of New Westminster. The first factory was in a small building next to the Kelowna Shippers' Union storehouse near the CPR wharf. Later a more commodious building was built across Bernard Avenue from the wharf—office space was rented on the ground floor, and the cigars manufactured in the upper floor. This building is now the Mayfair Apartments.

A brochure issued by the British North American Tobacco Co., in 1912, tells a great deal about the extensive plantings, growing, curing and manufacturing pertinent to the industry. At this time the cigar factory employed 60 hands. An advertisement tells of B.C.'s "most interesting industry—Tobacco" —"If you have not had the experience—get the habit."

The British North American Co. Ltd., was formed with a capital of $500,000.00, and apparently was successful for many years, giving employment to a good number of people. Our photographs show, not only the plantings and barns in outlying areas, but several in Kelowna—George Rose, then editor of the Kelowna Courier, is shown standing in a large field between Richter and Ellis with Harvey Avenue on the North. Another shows a field from the lake to Pandosy St., and the present Christleton Avenue would run roughly down the centre of it. However, the BNA Co. had to go into liquidation, due to the acquisitive nature of one of its officials.

The third venture into tobacco growing occurred in the late 1920's with a tobacco barn out at Okanagan Mission being used. Leaves grown were for pipe tobacco, and for a time for cigarettes—mixed with leaf grown at Sumas. This product was put in packages and tins under the label Kelowna Pride —this time the finished product was manufactured by the Canadian Tobacco Co. in Vancouver. Why this venture failed, I'm not quite sure—but my memory of the tobacco is that it was pretty offensive to the olfactory nerves — perhaps there was some other reason!

Dustin Sort Of Breathless Now As Survivor Of Custer Massacre

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There was Dustin Hoffman, waist-deep in a muddy pond on a movie location ranch, being introduced to the rigors of a film Western.

Hoffman, playing the title role in Little Big Man, a fanciful story of the sole white survivor of the Custer massacre, was being baptized by a frontier preacher. This particular preacher believed in exorcism of the soul as well as total immersion. The result was that Hoffman was held under water for a lengthy period while the churchman pleaded forgiveness of his many sins.

Breathing hard, Hoffman came to shore between takes to dry off and don another baptismal robe. In talking with a reporter, he fitted the pattern of anti-hero that has marked his brief, meteoric film career.

OWN STUNTMAN

"This business of doing your own stunts is not for me," he said. "If they can get by with a double for me—fine. Trouble is, I've got to do a lot of my own action in this picture. Like riding a horse.

"I never rode a horse before. Never. But this character I play was captured at 14 and brought up by the Indians, so I've got to look natural on a horse. It's not easy. Especially when I've got to ride bareback most of the time.

"Horses weren't made for guys with short legs like me. The whole thing is holding on by clamping your legs around the horse's belly, and mine don't reach. I've had about 12 lessons from this girl stunt rider (Stevie Myers). Two days of it and I'm saddle sore.

"The trouble with doing your own stunts is that you get a feeling of monotony. You figure nothing can happen to you as long as the camera is on you.

"That happened to me on The Graduate. I had this scene where I was driving along the freeway in the Alfa Romeo. The camera was on the front of the car and I switched it on when I got the signal from a helicopter overhead. So I turned on the camera and was driving along when I looked down and saw I was going over the speed limit. You can get killed!"

RECALLS LEAN DAYS

Hoffman has returned to his homeland a star, which might surprise those who knew him as a runty, pimply kid in his early Los Angeles days.

His success might also startle those who knew him in his starving New York days. "The worst thing then was not knowing if you'd ever work as an actor again," he recalled. "I'd finish a season of summer stock and say, 'God, is this the last job until next summer?'"

"Once when I was 25 or 26, I quit acting altogether for a couple of years. I figured I couldn't make it."

At 31, Dustin Hoffman has it made. He is incorporated, and producers line up to offer their best properties at his price.

TEMPERATURES DECREASE

The troposphere, extending seven to 10 miles from earth's surface, is the highest layer of the atmosphere at which temperatures decrease with increasing altitude.

MOSCOW LOVES HER

British pop singer Mary Hopkin, above, is quoted by Radio Moscow in a documentary as saying "now everything connected with Russia is fashionable." The station says therefore the pop music world has gone wild over Russia, and cited the Beatles' hit "Back in the U.S.S.R."

Only Money Spurs Artist

TORONTO (CP) — Charlie Lee, 11, who looks much like an artist in his blue beret, has gone into the portrait business and so far none of his clients has complained about the drawings he has made of them.

Charlie is painting strictly for the money—money badly needed to keep a day camp going for 140 city youngsters.

The money he and three friends make from drawing portraits of passersby near Toronto's city hall will help overcome a deficit in the budget of University Settlement's day camp.

The camp is run by unpaid volunteers, most of them high school students, who take youngsters like Charlie on day outings to zoos, museums, libraries, factories, parks and swimming pools.

SOPHIA IN MOSCOW

Italian actress Sophia Loren waves on arrival at Moscow airport. She flew in from Italy to make a film called

The Sunflower. On hand to greet her was Georgi Mdi-

vani, Soviet scriptwriter.

For the last two years she has been doing research for the University of Glasgow on Scots emigration to Canada.

John Ramsay of Kildalton, by Freda Ramsay: $6.95; Peter Martin Associates.

Book Corner

In the mid-1800s, hundreds of Scots from the island of Islay, off the west coast of the Scottish Highlands, came to Canada, settling around Barrie, Ont., and towards Georgian Bay. In 1870, John Ramsay of Kildalton, distiller and ship owner, came over to find the immigrants prospering.

Ramsay wrote and had privately printed an account of his trip. That account, packed with facts and impressions of the new country, forms part of John Ramsay of Kildalton, by Freda Ramsay, a granddaughter-in-law. The remainder is a lively biography of Ramsay.

Born in Mauritius where her father was an officer of the 5th Fusiliers, she married Iain Ramsay, Younger of Kildalton, as he was known. Iain Ramsay, in the RAF, was killed in 1942 and Freda Ramsay went to Islay to live in Kildalton.

They Remember The Woodman

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I made 50 motion pictures in my day," says Jack Haley, "but the one that everyone remembers is The Wizard of Oz."

Naturally. Because of the repeated showings on television, a whole new generation of youngsters knows the Tin Woodman even though they aren't familiar with the career of Jack Haley.

Those over 40 would be. Through the 1930s and into the 1940s Haley starred in a succession of musicals and comedies. His favorite: Wake Up and Live, in which he sang in his bland style Never in a Million Years.

Jack Haley is making his first movie in 25 years, and it's a sentimental return. The film is Norwood and the director is Jack Haley Jr., making his feature debut after a distinguished career in television.

SON'S THE BOSS

Explained Haley Sr.: "He asked me to do the picture and because I love him, I obeyed. After all, he obeyed me during those years when he was growing up."

"I still can't get over it. I've worked with 46 different directors in 50 films. Then to come on a set and see a million dollars worth of equipment and a crew of 90 people, and my son is in charge of all of this!"

"To realize that my own son has such a responsibility was a strange feeling. I wondered if he was capable of handling it. Then after I saw him work, I realized that he was. How did he get that way? Nine years of making documentaries for David Wolper, when millions of feet of film went through his hands."

The elder Haley is playing a brief role as a farm owner in Norwood, which stars Glen Campbell and Kim Darby.

KIM SAYS SHE'S SHY

Kim Novak arrives at the film festival in Freeport, Grand Bahama Island, where she said she was naturally shy and finds nude scenes on the screen very difficult to do. But like a good trouper, she feels she must go along with it because everybody else seems to be undressing on the screen today. She was referring to her Lady Godiva scene in the movie The Great Bank Robbery which was presented at the film festival.

One Of Top Folk Singers Today To Appear At Mariposa Festival

TORONTO (CP) —Folk-music buffs attending the ninth annual Mariposa Folk Festival during last weekend had a rare opportunity to see one of the biggest names in folk music—Joan Baez.

They also were given the chance to compare her style with that of two Canadians who have achieved international popularity in the last year—Joni Mitchell of Fort Macleod, Alta., and Gilles Vigneault of Natashquan, Que.

The decision by Miss Baez, the 28-year-old American singer and war protester, to appear represents something of a coup for festival organizers. Miss Baez has curtailed concert appearances in the last few years in favor of speaking engagements protesting the military draft and U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war. Her husband, David Harris, is serving a three-year sentence for refusing induction into the army.

Composer-singer Joni Mitchell was making her fifth visit to the festival. Since her first appearance as a guitar-strumming spectator in 1965, she has gone on to achieve popularity in the United States, particularly through her composition From Both Sides Now, recorded by Frank Sinatra and Judy Collins.

Often compared to Joan Baez for her clarity of voice and individual style, Miss Mitchell, 26, does not include protest songs in her repertoire. Rather, she says, protest is something she feels, particularly when she has heard racial remarks while touring the U.S. South.

She now lives in Laurel Canyon, a suburb of Los Angeles.

Gilles Vigneault is probably the most versatile of the Mariposa performers this year. The 40-year-old chansonnier has written more than 200 songs, is a published poet, and in 1966 received the $2,500 Governor-General's Literary Award for his book of poetry, Quand les Bateaux s'en Vont.

Vigneault sings in French such songs as Mon Pays, C'est l'Hiver and musically describes such Quebec characters as Berlu the fisherman and Tim-Paul the lumberjack.

Did You Ever Ride National Monument?

Ever ride a national monument?

It's being done every day by passengers visiting San Francisco on CP Air jets from British Columbia.

The city's cable cars were named a national historical monument in February, 1964, by the U.S. Interior Department's National Park Service. It couldn't have happened to a happier institution.

The only vehicles of their kind in the world today, these colorful anachronisms are a 92-year-old San Francisco tradition. The little "Toonervilles" took the first scheduled vacation of their long careers in March, 1965. During the brief shutdown, the municipal railway renovated the complicated winding gear, much of it dating from 1889, which plays out and reels in the cable cars' lifeline — 10½ miles of wrapped steel cable 1¼ inches in diameter — at a steady 9½ miles per hour.

Now that cross-town roller coasting has resumed in San Francisco, plans are being pushed to dress up the cable car barn. San Francisco's Public Utilities Commission has budgeted for funds to make a municipal showplace out of the old (circa 1878), brick car barn and powerhouse at Mason and Washington Streets.

As envisioned, it will house a spectator's gallery and a museum of cable car relics. From their overhead vantage point, visitors will be able to watch the great, throbbing winders thread the cable through big figure 8s and back into the system via slack-absorbing tension racks, and study the remarkable auxiliary equipment.

Billy O'Connor Alive And Well And Preparing For Big CNE Show

TORONTO (CP) — Billy O'Connor is alive and well and preparing to do things with this year's Canadian National Exhibition grandstand show.

Billy is stepping into the limelight once again after nearly 10 years of relative rest and quiet. As the chief booking agent for the CNE extravaganza, he will be responsible for bringing such top entertainers as Bob Hope, Bill Cosby, Glen Campbell, Sergio Mendes and the Monkees to Toronto Aug. 14-Sept. 1.

As recently as 15 years ago, Billy himself was a popular singer, promoter and variety show emcee in Canada. He was host of the Billy O'Connor Show, Club O'Connor and Saturday Night Date With Billy O'Connor, all popular CBC-TV shows. Billy's name was a household word in thousands of homes all across Canada.

For at least five years Billy was king. He had a cornball sense of humor, an infectious grin and a boyish charm which made him seem like a teen-ager to all the moms and dads for whom he sang the old chestnuts. And with singer Juliette beside him, he couldn't lose.

In 1956 he split with Juliette. She ran her own show; he ran his. Billy was still popular and making about $1,000 a week until he went off the air in 1960.

Billy explains it with a chuckle: "There's no room for hams anymore. When people ask me why I went off the air, I tell them the CBC found out I didn't have any talent."

Or, in a more serious vein, he says: "I knew the days of being a star and everything wouldn't last forever."

Since 1960 he has devoted his time almost exclusively to his own talent booking agency, O'Connor Enterprises, a small outfit he started in Toronto in 1954.

"I couldn't get used to it at first," he said. "I couldn't get my heart into it."

But he has gone a long way since then.

"You've got to realize that trends change. Rock 'n' roll, folk—you've got to understand it, and I never could. I never used to book rock 'n' roll—I detested it. Then I realized that these kids were on to something and I was on the sidewalk watching the parade to the bank. I decided there's something beside Bill Bailey and made an effort."

That effort has landed Billy O'Connor the major contract with the CNE.

Fishing Slows Down

By JIM TREADGOLD

In general sport fishing has been fairly slow during the sunny days this past week, with most fish taken in the early morning and evening hours, and more fishermen resorting to the old spinner and worm for results.

The best time to fish Beaver is during the evening, with flies and flatfish accounting for most fish taken. During the day the spinner and worm will take fish.

The Dee chain is about the same, with even the most productive lakes like First Fly being quite slow on hot days. A few good reports were received from Doreen Lake again last weekend. There are some good sized fish in this lake.

Jack Prior of the White Mountain Camp at McCulloch reports fishing a bit improved as the water is receding. Mr. Belshaw of Tacoma, Wash., took a nice catch this week using the silver flatfish and worms. The lakes surrounding McCulloch dam also show this improvement. Jack reports these lakes are now an excellent spot for those who like to collect driftwood, as the fast receding waters have left large amounts of drift along the shorelines.

A few local anglers have been in to Jimmy Lake and report fishing as fair to good with fish to three pounds being taken. Any tackle found along the road up to Jimmy Lake probably belongs to Dr. Jim Rankine, as his Bronco kicked his tackle out on his last trip up.

Had one good report from Pinaus Lake, where nice fish are being taken on the fly in late evening in one bay of the lake.

Pennask and Hatheume remain about the same, being quite productive mostly on the fly. There has been a lot of wind in this area of late, and it cools quickly in the evenings, so take along a jacket. Believe it or not there was a little snow there last Thursday night.

Wally Maxson reports good success on the Kokanee in Okanagan Lake at present, fishing the early morning periods. He is taking nice sized Kokanee, using seven to eight ounces of lead on 100 feet of line, getting that lure down deep.

There is a little activity along the Shuswap River as the Spring Salmon run moves in. In about another week fishing for these very big fish will start in earnest.

This is a specialized sport that lasts for about six weeks. A heavy duty spinning reel is desired, along with a heavy action nine foot spin rod. Reels must have large capacity of approximately 50 pounds monofilament line. The most common bait used is the preserved salmon egg clusters, and large spoons like the No. four Tee Spoon or No. five FST. Early morning is the best time of the day to fish for the salmon, and when the run is at its peak they inhabit all of the Shuswap river from the falls out of Lumby, downstream to Enderby. They are also trolled for in Mable Lake with large spoons during the first part of September.

A number of local anglers are now fishing the rivers in northern B.C. as the Spring and Coho runs are moving into their headwaters spawning areas. George Day and Lionel McCarthy are on the Skeena River, this being their second annual safari after the giant Spring. Last season Lionel landed one of 50 pounds. This weekend Ernie Malen and Rex Fitzgerald head for their second trip into the Bulkley River at Moricetown. Last season they got initiated to this type of fishing and can't wait to get back.

The northern B.C. river fishing attracts many American fishermen, who spend the whole summer after the big ones, both Salmon and Steelhead. As time goes on more local anglers will get acquainted with this type of fishing and once hooked will get back there at every opportunity.

The hunting regulations should be out any day now and we will run a resume of seasons and limits as soon as the regulations come to hand.

The fish and game club had a clean-up party at the Sportsmen's Field the other evening and put the rifle range in shape, with a new backdrop set up. Shooters are asked not to take out bottles for targets as the broken glass is unsightly and a menace to all who use the range. This shooting-in range, is a great asset for the local hunters, but it must be respected or it will be locked up, I am told.

Ti-Cats Rise On New Note Dump Toronto Argos 34-28

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Joe Restic says he hung a sign beside the door of his Hamilton Tiger-Cats dressing room early this year.

"The greatness of the Tiger-Cats is not that they never fail, but that they rise every time they fall," says the main sign. Under this is an ominous warning:

"The Cats will be back." The Tiacs came back Thursday night, defeating Toronto Argonauts 34-28 in Eastern Football Conference action after finishing out of the division finals last season for the first time since 1960.

And they rose on a new note — "by faking the Toronto defence right out of their football boots," said Restic.

The bewildered Toronto defence watched out of position in most cases as Tommy Joe Coffey led the assault with 16 points—two touchdowns, and four converts. One of Coffey's touchdowns came when he missed a field goal attempt late in the game and recovered the ball in the Toronto end zone after it was knocked loose from receiver Mike Eben.

Ed Buchanan, the former great halfback with Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Conference, veteran Willie Beath and rookie Henry Sorrell scored the other Hamilton touchdowns.

WILKINSON GETS NOD Meanwhile, Tom Wilkinson, who drew the quarterbacking assignment over last season's leading EFC passer Wally Gahler, shredded the Tiacs defence with 435 yards in the air and directed another 113-yard gain on the ground.

The Hamilton defence, the mainstay of the club during the first eight years of this decade, gave way to touchdowns by Bobby Taylor, Eben, Bill Symons and Jim Thorpe, but three missed field-goal attempts and two convert attempts that failed by kicker Dave Mann cost Toronto nine crucial points.

Bolt Leading Golf Classic

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — "I just wanted to show those young cats I was playing with I can play, too," said Tommy Bolt.

Bolt showed not only George Archer and Johnny Pott, his playing partners, but everyone else in the elite Westchester Classic field Thursday that just because he was mellowed some at 51, his golf game hasn't.

Bolt struck the tight par-72 Westchester Country Club course like lightning with five consecutive birdies for a 66 and a one-shot lead after the first round of the $250,000 tournament, the richest in golf.

Australian Bruce Devlin and Bert Greene were one shot back at 67.

Another stroke back were Bruce Crampton, an Australian, South African Harold Henning, Paul Harvey, Terry Dill, Fred Marti and Bob Lunn. Long-hitting Tom Weiskopf was in a group at 69 which included Frank Beard, Tony Jacklin, Jim Colbert, R. H. Sikes, Bobby Nichols and Marty Fleckman.

NEW TROPHY FOR SUMMER HOCKEY GAME

The winning team this year in Kelowna's annual summer hockey game will be the first recipient of the Don Lange Kelowna Regatta City Cup, being displayed by, from left, Kelowna Buckaroos assistant coach Orval Lavell, manager Scotty Angus and coach Brian Roche. The game, being played Saturday at the Memorial Arena, has the B.C. Junior Hockey League champion Victoria Cougars matched against the Buckaroos, in a change of format from previous years where now only junior clubs can compete in the event, formerly dominated by professionals. All proceeds from the game will be turned over to the Regatta Association for the purpose of re-building the Aquatic. Of special note for the public, says manager Angus, are the $600 worth of door prizes, including one of a trip to Montreal later this year to watch a National Hockey League contest, between Montreal and Toronto. (Courier Photo).

Kitsch Returns To Familiar Number One Racing Position

Drew (the Laughing Stock) Kitsch is back where he wants to be... in first place. After starting the stock car racing season late, Kitsch has finally moved into top spot in the B modified points competition.

Ever since the Billy Foster Memorial Speedway opened in 1967 Kitsch has topped whatever class he has run in and he doesn't want to break the string this time around. In '67 he won more races than anyone in any class, won the early-late points chase and was named top driver and rookie of the year. Last year he won the B modified

Wayne Vollmer With 66 Leads Alberta Open

CALGARY (AP) — Wayne Vollmer's strong iron game knocked five strokes off par Thursday as the defending champion from Vancouver recorded a 66 in the first round of the Alberta open golf championship.

"My wedge was really working, and on this course your wedge has got to work," said Vollmer, 24, who entered today's second round with a three-stroke lead in the $5,000 tournament.

"I played better today than I have for the past couple of months. The big part of my game, however, was my irons which worked better than they have in weeks."

Vollmer had a 33 on each of the front and back nine holes. Gary Slater, a native of Huntsville, Ont., and a professional at Freeport, Bahamas, and amateur Jack Wilkes of Calgary each fired 69s over the 6,550-yard Earl Grey club par-71 course to share second place.

Junior Ball Begins Today

Canada's junior baseball championships begin today in Sarnia, Ont.

B.C.'s representative in the nine-province field are the Trail Blazers, last year's provincial champions. Quebec is the only province not represented in the double knockout tournament.

Trail, bolstered by the addition of three players from the Okanagan Mainline Baseball League's Kelowna Labatts, meet the Moncton Cubs from New Brunswick in the tourney opener.

As many as 17 games could be played in the tourney which concludes Monday.

The Kelowna players include third baseman Bobby Schwab, second baseman Bob Cox and pitcher Don Mainland. Kame Loops' Randy Rota also was picked up by the Kootenay club.

Other teams in the event include Carmen, Man., Edmonton, Regina, Sydney and selected clubs representing the provinces of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, besides host Sarnia.

Oldest Boat Is Fastest

SEATTLE (AP) — Miss Atlas Van Lines of Phoenix, Ariz., the oldest boat on the unlimited hydroplane circuit this season—was the fastest on Lake Washington Thursday as the big boat roared through their second day of testing for Sunday's Seafair Regatta.

Jim McCormick piloted the Atlas to a 119.469 miles an hour clocking on the three-mile course.

Time trials that will split $2,500 to the hydros turning the fastest three laps were set to begin this morning with the regatta to begin at noon Sunday.

Second fastest performance Thursday was a 113.208 m.p.h. clocking by Myr's Special of Detroit while the Notre Dame of Seattle and Detroit posted a 112.033 m.p.h. speed.

Continental Oil Policy Needed Here Say Experts

WASHINGTON (CP) — What this continent needs, say many in the North American oil industry, is a continental oil policy.

But when they get down to articulating what they mean by such a policy, a wide range of divergent opinion becomes apparent. Some say there already is such a policy of sorts, others that there never will be.

Said one Canadian close to the situation: "There has been a lot of loose talk about a continental oil policy, or energy policy or whatever you want to call it—they are phrases that are bandied about."

At the centre of the general uncertainty in the industry is the fact both the Nixon administration and Ottawa are in the midst of high-level oil policy reviews.

In general, Ottawa is waiting to see what Washington decides—what comes out of the task force study being conducted by Labor Secretary George P. Schultz.

Already it has had more than 200 briefs put before it and although it is supposed to complete its work by October, no one will be surprised if it takes much longer.

TREND CONTINENTAL

The predominant trend is toward a continental policy in one form or another, officials say. Canadian government and industry representatives have declined an invitation to make formal submissions to the inquiry commissioned by President Nixon to review the mandatory oil import program established in 1959.

In the background is the fact that Canada could produce all the oil she needs to fill domestic demands. She does not.

Instead she sells much of her oil to the U.S. and buys imported oil to meet the demands of Eastern Canada. As critics here say: "Canada buys cheap and sells dear."

Prime Minister Trudeau conceded recently: "We've got the best of all possible worlds; we're selling our oil in an expensive market in the United States and we're buying our oil in the cheap market—Venezuela and elsewhere."

But American interests, particularly smaller firms, argue the Canadian East imports an average of about 500,000 barrels daily. In time of crisis, the Canadian West would have to feed the East, cutting back on the traditional supplies into the U.S. Thus, the argument goes, Canadian oil isn't "secure" at all.

But as the tone of submissions to the Schultz inquiry has shown, there is a growing relaxation of this firm attitude toward Canada—particularly, of course, among big companies with interests in Canada.

Mexican oil imports stay pretty much around 30,000 barrels a day and are not a controversial issue. Nor is Canadian oil imported west of the Rocky Mountains.

Under the 1959 plan imports are supposed to be held to 12.2 per cent of domestic production. "Secure" overland imports are taken off the top—on the basis of guidelines issued by the interior department—and the balance is imported from overseas.

The only trouble is that Canada is not selling as much as she would like, but much more than many here think she should.

While the Canadian situation annoys many in the U.S., the industry here is not without self-interest. What many would like is a continental oil policy under which they could take as much Canadian oil as would be convenient but not too much, so as to push down the price. They want the advantage but not the competition.

PRICES KEPT HIGH

For years, the U.S. industry has kept prices artificially high by curtailing cheaper imports, bringing charges by critics that this policy costs the U.S. consumer as much as $7,000,000,000 annually.

The industry argues a healthy oil industry is vital to national security. After the oil import program was established in defence of this premise, Canada was excluded somewhat on the grounds oil from Canada came in overland and thus was as secure as U.S. oil, as compared with oil from overseas.

But American interests, particularly smaller firms, argue the Canadian East imports an average of about 500,000 barrels daily. In time of crisis, the Canadian West would have to feed the East, cutting back on the traditional supplies into the U.S. Thus, the argument goes, Canadian oil isn't "secure" at all.

But as the tone of submissions to the Schultz inquiry has shown, there is a growing relaxation of this firm attitude toward Canada—particularly, of course, among big companies with interests in Canada.

Mexican oil imports stay pretty much around 30,000 barrels a day and are not a controversial issue. Nor is Canadian oil imported west of the Rocky Mountains.

Under the 1959 plan imports are supposed to be held to 12.2 per cent of domestic production. "Secure" overland imports are taken off the top—on the basis of guidelines issued by the interior department—and the balance is imported from overseas.

Under the 1959 plan imports are supposed to be held to 12.2 per cent of domestic production. "Secure" overland imports are taken off the top—on the basis of guidelines issued by the interior department—and the balance is imported from overseas.

But Canadian imports have increasingly run over the suggested totals. A once-secret U.S.-Canada agreement in 1967 set 306,000 barrels a day as the Canadian target average east of the Rockies—the implication being if Canada did not follow the agreement there might be more formal controls.

Still, Canadian oil imports have persisted in running over the target and the latest available figures, for May, show the total was 322,264 barrels daily—a slight drop over earlier months. Venezuela, in particular, charges this overrun cuts into its quota.

It is hard to imagine, observers here say, Canada agreeing to any form of continental policy along the lines suggested, for instance, by the Independent Petroleum Association of America, a grouping of smaller companies. Under the IPAA proposal, Canada would agree to a fixed export to the U.S.—and stick to it—and also sell Western Canadian oil in Eastern Canada.

IN CANADA'S INTEREST

"I don't give a darn how cheap Canada can buy imported oil in the East," said Lloyd Unsell, public relations director for the association, in a recent interview. "It's in her own interest—for the sake of her economy, her national security—to develop the full potential of her oil industry to provide jobs and technology and not be relying on imports."

The Canadian government's objection to the pipeline to Montreal that some Western oil interests would like to see is that the East would have to pay much, much more for Canadian oil than for the imports.

But Trudeau said in a recent television interview price was not the only factor. If Canada started pumping oil into the eastern province then Canadian supplies to the U.S. would be even less secure apparently scuttling expectations Americans might decide in favor of increased dependence on Canadian oil.

"And we don't want to rock that boat," Trudeau added.

Wall Street Investigating Possibility Of False Rumor

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Stock Exchange is investigating the possibility that false rumors of a decline in the prime interest rate might have been floated deliberately in an attempt to manipulate the stock market.

"We are checking out that rumor to learn the circumstances surrounding it and what effect it might have had on the market," an exchange official said. The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission said it also plans an inquiry.

The rumors rose when the Dow Jones industrial average was down 9.11 points to below 800—and touched off a sharp rally that kicked the average to 803.58 at closing, a gain of 1.62 points.

Many of the rumors centre on the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., one of the largest U.S. commercial banks. Prime rate fluctuations are usually touched off by the action of a single major New York bank.

A decrease in the prime rate—the rate charged by banks to their biggest and best customers—would point to an easing of the tight money market and an end to the current bearish trend. The rate now stands at a record 8½ per cent.

The New York Times says at least two telephone callers reached its business and financial news department and attempted to spur speculation about a possible rate reduction before the denial by Morgan Guaranty.

Both callers said they were associated with major brokerage concerns, but declined to further identify themselves, the Times says.

Before the rally, the prospect had been that the Dow Jones industrial average might close below 800 for the first time since Jan. 4, 1967.

Analysts said a close under 800 could have been a psychological shock to investors who place considerable importance on the average's movement below or above the hundred levels on the Dow chart.

VOTE ORDERED

MERRITT (CP)—The provincial Labor Relations Board Wednesday ordered a vote among workers at the Lornex mines operation in the Highland Valley near here to decide whether they want the three-way pact unions or the United Steelworkers of America to represent them. Three-way pact unions—operating engineers, Teamsters and Tunnel and Rock Workers—are currently certified as bargaining agent.

Pacemaking U.S. Steel Corp. Posts Bold Price Increases

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United States steel industry's pacemaking U.S. Steel Corp. has posted price increases averaging 4.8 per cent on a range of big-tonnage products used for such items as cars, refrigerators and tin cans.

In this move, the boldest since Bethlehem Steel Corp.'s five-per-cent across-the-board increase was whittled to two per cent by the White House last August, was met with cautious silence by other producers and major users and drew only a mild rebuff from Washington.

U.S. Steel said the principal reason for the price increase was to meet pay raises that some 400,000 steelworkers will get Friday under a contract negotiated last summer. The increased labor cost has been estimated at six per cent.

But the largest U.S. producer also cited increased costs of materials and services and high taxes as justification for the new prices, which take effect next Wednesday.

The products affected, carbon sheet and strip and galvanized sheet, account for more than half of the industry's shipments. U.S. Steel declined to say what proportion of its production was affected, but trade sources estimated that the increases would add $80,000,000 annually in profits.

In the past, U.S. Steel has set price trends for the industry, but Wednesday's announcement generated no immediate action by other producers.

Spokesmen for Bethlehem, Inland, National, Republic and Jones and Laughlin would say only that the U.S. Steel action was under study.

Deferred Delivery Plan To Help Prairie Farmers

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian wheat board today announced a deferred delivery permit plan giving some relief to farmers caught short by congested elevators when the 1968-69 crop year ends at midnight tonight.

Because hopes of making a delivery quota of five bushels a specified acre effective across the prairies have not been realized, the board will permit deferred delivery of the balance of a five-bushel quota—but only to a maximum of one bushel a specified acre.

A farmer who has not completed a four-bushel quota delivery by tonight thus will not be able to realize the full five bushels under the deferment plan.

The board announcement also added that congestion may permit such deliveries in the immediate future but authority will be granted "as space is created and circumstances permit."

The announcement was welcomed, with reservations, by Roy Atkinson of Saskatoon, newly-elected president of the National Farmers Union which is holding its founding convention here.

FARMERS FAVOR PLAN

"We welcome the extension," said Mr. Atkinson, "but it would have been better to have given every farmer a cheque for payment of undelivered grain and take deliveries later."

The permits will be restricted to producers who had grain on hand as of Thursday which they were unable to deliver because of congestion at their regular delivery points, and provided the grain was produced on lands described in the producers' 1968-69 delivery permit books.

Applications will be necessary for the deferred delivery permits and forms now are being prepared. They will be available from the wheat board or from elevator company head offices.

Applications must be declared before a commissioner of oaths and verified by the elevator manager. They must then be sent to the wheat board's Winnipeg office before Sept. 16 if possible, accompanied by the producer's 1968-69 delivery permit book.

Producers must obtain 1968-70 permit books before sending applications.

SOUGHT MORE SPACE

The board announcement noted it had been hoped earlier that enough space would be available by Thursday to enable all producers to complete delivery of a five-bushel specified quota.

Notwithstanding, the excellent co-operation received from the railways, elevator companies and terminal operators, it has not been possible to reach this objective fully at some delivery points.

As of Wednesday night, 1,190 delivery points were on five-bushel quotas and 320 on four bushels.

Normal practice as of the Aug. 1 start of the new crop year is to apply a "unit" quota system, permitting a small delivery of grain regardless of acreage, before general quotas resume later in the year.

It was believed the same practice would apply this year although the board made no announcement.

gested elevators when the 1968-69 crop year ends at midnight tonight.

Because hopes of making a delivery quota of five bushels a specified acre effective across the prairies have not been realized, the board will permit deferred delivery of the balance of a five-bushel quota—but only to a maximum of one bushel a

A farmer who has not completed a four-bushel quota delivery by tonight thus will not be able to realize the full five bushels under the deferment plan.

The board announcement also added that congestion may permit such deliveries in the immediate future but authority will be granted "as space is created and circumstances permit."

The announcement was welcomed, with reservations, by Roy Atkinson of Saskatoon, newly-elected president of the National Farmers Union which is holding its founding convention here.

You never miss your daily paper until it isn't there

You seldom realize how much a daily newspaper means to you—or the community—until one day it isn't there.

Surprisingly, perhaps, it's the little things that are missed the most—the services, the incidentals. Consider the plight of New Yorkers caught in a city-wide newspaper strike not so long ago. They missed the news, to be sure. The editorial comment, the women's pages, the sports section and the comics. What else?

Well, they never knew what was on at the movies. They missed the daily stock market quotations and the bargain sales at Macy's and Gimbel's. People couldn't find apartments—or jobs—without the classified ads. Concerts and recitals were postponed; plays closed prematurely.

Statistics may be a heartless way to measure the effects of such a strike. But sometimes, they're the only way. Unless you're a florist, you might not be interested to learn that flower sales fell off some 20%. Until you realized that the absence of obituary notices helped produce this loss. Then you begin to see what a newspaper means to a community.

If the newspapers themselves lost $101 million in sales and advertising revenue, should you care? Yes, because most of this money would have been paid to employees in wages and salaries, to other companies (and their employees) for newsprint, ink, film, engravings and other operating necessities. Several thousand news dealers went out of business. Some permanently. Department stores lost $5½ million, hotels and restaurants almost $20 million, federal and state governments $11 million, railroads $2½ million. When so many businesses suffer such severe losses, everyone suffers.

If you think Canadians were remote from all this, think again. The New York newspaper strike cost the Canadian newsprint industry $28,700,000. A lot of men lost a lot of days' pay. The newsprint industry will feel the pinch for some time to come.

Yes, it's easy to take your daily newspaper for granted when it's at your front door every day. Not so easy for you—or the community—to get along without it.

BIDDING QUIZ

You have the following hand, both sides vulnerable:

♠AKJ3 ♥KJ52 ♦7 ♣AQ4

- You are the dealer. What would you bid?
- Your right-hand opponent opens One Diamond, which you double, and your left-hand opponent bids Three Diamonds. After two passes, what would you bid now?
- You deal and bid One Heart; partner responds One Spade. What would you bid now?
- You deal and bid One Heart; partner responds Two Clubs. When you then bid Two Spades, partner responds Three Diamonds. What would you bid now?
- Your right-hand opponent opens Three Diamonds, which you double. Your partner responds Three Notrump. What would you bid now?

1. One Heart. This is essentially a suit type of hand and your first goal should be to find the best trump suit. The intention is to bid spades next, and partner will then learn that the hearts are longer than the spades, since they were bid first. In choosing an opening bid, length of suit generally takes precedence over strength of suit.

2. Double. This is still a take-out double, even though you doubled on the previous round and partner did not respond. You have considerably more values than were shown by the first double, and the hand is too promising to give up without a further effort. It is better to double again than take a blind shot at three hearts or spades, and, furthermore, clubs might turn out to be your side's best trump suit.

3. Four Spades. This is by no means a closeout bid. The jump to game tells partner that even though his spade response may have been based on only six points, game is still highly probable. By inference, therefore, the jump announces at least 20 points, distributional or otherwise, and hence constitutes a slam try.

4. Five Clubs. Having indicated five hearts and four spades, you can now show the excellent club support and the singleton diamond by jumping to five. It would be wrong to bid three notrump. This would be correct if the queen of clubs were the queen of diamonds, but this one-card change probably makes all the difference between an ice-cold slam and just a game.

5. Pass. You have no choice but to accept partner's judgment that notrump is the right spot. Partner presumably knows you were angling for a suit when you doubled, and it would be dead wrong to start groping now for a better place to play the hand.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Restrictions where personal relationships are concerned continue, unfortunately, so determine to keep your spirit steady and to maintain a serene disposition, no matter what provocations you face. This will not be a good period for either romance or social activities, but be patient. Better influences will prevail soon.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope promises an interesting and productive year. Both material and personal interests will be governed by beneficent stellar influences and, through the spacing of achievement in these various areas of your life, you should find the next 12 months a continuous cycle of happy surprises. In your private life, for instance, you are currently in an extraordinarily propitious period for romance—one which will last throughout this entire month. Then, in late November, Cupid smiles again and, for the single, there is a great likelihood of marriage at that time. Next good months for sentimental interests: December, February, May and June. Most auspicious periods for travel: The current month, October, January and mid-1970.

Where occupational and financial interests are concerned, do not be dismayed if both have been at something of a standstill lately. You are slated for gains on both fronts—and soon. On the monetary score, you should note a fine uptrend during the last three months of this year, to be followed by other good periods for increasing assets in late March, May and June. Best periods for advancing job-wise: From Sept. 1 through Nov. 30, in January,

Rutland LCB Outlet Opens

Construction has been completed on the new liquor store built adjacent to Dion's IGA grocery in Rutland.

The store owned by Claude Dion of Rutland and leased to the B.C. Liquor Control Board opened today for public servicing. The Howard Johnson Construction Company began construction of the one-storey structure June 28 after a licence was granted by the provincial government for the building of a second liquor store in the Kelowna area.

The new store, built with gray and brown bricks, has parking facilities for 120 cars. Glass doors open into a spacious interior designed with a western decor. The brown bricks around the entrance were the same ones used on the Dion Building, facing Rutland Road, that was torn down last July.

Lighting fixtures inside the store are authentic wagon wheels hung from the ceiling and wired with electricity. The counters are constructed of wood panelling and wood shakes border the ceiling.

Owner of the store, Mr. Dion said "a new liquor store should take the strain off the Kelowna facilities."

Balcony Collapse Fatal For Three

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) — Three workers died when a 19th-storey balcony of a building under construction collapsed under them, dragging the balconies of four other storeys with it. A fourth worker broke his fall on a beam projecting from the 16th floor and hung on grimly until he was rescued by other workmen.

BOSTON (AP) — A college student says he has bought from private firms two-thirds of the parts to build an intercontinental ballistic missile and has access to the rest.

Joseph R. MacG. Seitz, 21, a special student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said in a copyright story in the Boston Globe he purchased the part from various salvage and surplus metal dealers in Massachusetts.

The Globe said Dr. Jerome B. Weisner, provost of MIT and a former science adviser to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, called its attention to Seitz's work.

Seitz said he found a metal salvage dealer in Boston who "will sell you an Atlas nose cone for 40 cents a pound. . . . He doesn't know what they are unless you bother to tell him."

A warehouse in Taunton furnished a complete first-stage assembly of the Titan II-C, three guidance platforms, six re-entry shields and four "umbilical assemblies," Seitz said.

An "umbilical assembly" is one which disconnects the missile at the moment of launching. Seitz said he collected the components out of "idle curiosity" and to show security and ordinance people that "all you have to do is go out to the surplus yards and look."

Four CNR Chiefs To See Regatta

Four officials of Canadian National Railways will attend the 63rd annual Kelowna Regatta, Aug. 6-9. For three of them, it will be their first visit to the Regatta.

Donald F. Purves, vice-president of CN's mountain region, has accepted an invitation to attend. He was also present at last year's Regatta.

Attending this year for the first time are G. H. Bloomfield, general manager of the Mountain Region; Alfred E. Street, manager of CN for British Columbia; and Walter D. Spencer, freight sales manager for British Columbia.

All three were appointed to their positions within the past six months. Mr. Bloomfield was formerly manager of CN's Edmonton area while Mr. Street has just moved to Vancouver from London, Ont., where he was manager of CN's Southwestern Ontario area. Mr. Spencer was freight rates officer in Vancouver before his present appointment.

Banks See Slowdown

TORONTO (CP) — Two of Canada's largest chartered banks predict a slowdown in business growth and a relatively high rate of unemployment for the remainder of 1969.

The Bank of Montreal says in its monthly business review that there is evidence the monetary policies of restraint are starting to take effect in Canada and the United States, and a slower economic growth can be expected.

The Toronto-Dominion Bank says the rate of real growth of the gross national product is slowing down as a result of government policy.

Says the Montreal bank in its quarterly review: "This trend is expected to continue, particularly when the private sector responds to the urgencies of economic policy."

The Toronto-Dominion Bank predicts that unemployment in Canada will be close to five per cent of the labor force, compared with 4.3 per cent during the first three months of 1969 and 4.8 per cent during the second three months.

Steelworkers Leave Jobs As Strike Starts At Stelco

HAMILTON (CP) — With no word to the contrary from their negotiators, about 13,400 steelworkers at Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. plants in Ontario at Hamilton, Toronto, Brantford and Gananoque went off their jobs early today, cutting off 40 per cent of Canada's basic steel production.

The Stelco workers join nearly 18,000 other members of the United Steelworkers of America who have been off work since July 10 while awaiting a new contract with the International Nickel Co. of Canada.

Talks in Toronto between Stelco and steelworker officials went two hours and 15 minutes past the midnight Thursday night deadline for expiry of a three-year contract before breaking off indefinitely.

Mediator Carl Goldenberg, who had met with the negotiators for 23 consecutive days, said early today an agreement had been reached before the deadline on everything but a few fringe benefits.

Early Thursday evening, he emerged from the negotiations long enough to tell reporters "considerable progress had been made" and shortly after a company spokesman said there was hope of a settlement by 10 p.m.

PICKET LINES FORM
Picket lines, however, appeared at Stelco's giant Hilton Works in Hamilton by 11 p.m. and by midnight, about 500 spectators were on hand to watch 1,800 shift workers leave the plant. The workers had been told by union officials the stoppage was to be effective at midnight if they received no word to the contrary.

Earlier this week, the company made its own preparations by cooling off blast furnaces and hearths and steel production was suspended.

Failure to reach a settlement also affects workers at three wire and steel mesh operations in Hamilton, a heavy nut and bolt plant in Toronto, a washer and nut plant in Brantford and a forging plant in Gananoque where picket lines were established at midnight.

Riding on the outcome of negotiations is the action of 1,200 members of five Steelworker locals in Quebec who may legally strike Aug. 15. Several hundred more steelworkers at three plants in Alberta will also be eligible to strike after compliance with provincial labor laws.

NEGOTIATED EARLY
Negotiations between company and union began in April, one month earlier than stipulated by the old contract.

The union demands, presented to the company in February, included a wage-and-fringe benefit increase of $1.40 an hour over two years. The average wage under the old contract in Hamilton was $3.12 an hour.

An early company offer, rejected by the union, was for an 80.6-cent-a-hour increase spread over three years.

A major issue was a cost-of-living clause to provide up to 21 cents an hour based on an escalator formula.

Union negotiators have argued that steelworker productivity in Canada is highest in the world and that Stelco profits rose by 45 per cent in 1968.

Kennedy Goes Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward M. Kennedy, his face reddened, the skin around his eyes puffed, walked back into the Senate chamber Thursday to reclaim his front row desk on the Democratic side of the aisle.

"Come in, Ted," said Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. "You're right back where you belong."

With those words, Kennedy slipped quietly back into the routine of his position as Senate whip, his party's assistant leader.

He had not been seen on Capitol Hill since a July 18 auto accident in which a young woman riding in his car was killed.

Through the day, dozens of his colleagues—one after the other—reached down to shake his hand, drape an arm around his shoulder, whisper an encouraging word in his ear.

ANSWERS QUESTIONS

On the Senate steps, Kennedy, inclining his way through clutching reporters and tourists, had answered the question everyone had tried to ask:

No, he would not under any circumstances seek the presidency in 1972 and, yes, his decision was irrevocable. And yes, he was glad to be back.

Inside the chamber, Kennedy slouched in his chair. For more than an hour, at one point, he folded, unfolded and refolded a slip of paper.

Later, after a series of votes marking the first time since the membership was increased to 100 that all senators were present for a roll call, he again talked briefly with reporters.

Kennedy said he had been inclined not to seek the presidential nomination even before the accident which killed 28-year-old Mary Jo Kopechne and the controversy resulting from his failure to report the incident to police for 10 hours.

Enough explanations had been made, he said, and he would issue no others.

Yankee Success Rubs Off On Bauer's Oakland A's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hank Bauer remembers the glory days of the 1950s when whatever move New York Yankees made seemed destined for success.

Bauer was a part of that Yankee dynasty and he's brought a little of the magic along with him to Oakland.

Bauer, now manager of the Athletics, made a simple change in the ninth inning of Thursday night's game, inserting catcher Larry Haney in the lineup after using a pinch hitter for Phil Roof, the starting receiver. Moments later, Haney was the hero of the Athletics' 3-2 victory with a game-winning single.

The victims? New York Yankees.

It was Haney's hit in the bottom of the ninth that scored Rick Monday with the deciding run and spoiled Mel Stottlemyre's bid to become the major league's first 16-game winner.

Monday and Dick Green had singled and a wild pitch advanced the runners. Then Haney lined to left and Rick White dived for the ball, but managed only to trap it as Monday trotted home.

In other American League action, Minnesota Twins dropped Detroit Tigers 5-3, Baltimore Orioles trimmed Kansas City Royals 3-1, Cleveland Indians edged Chicago White Sox 3-2 in 10 innings, Washington Senators rapped Seattle Pilots 7-6 and Boston Red Sox defeated California Angels 9-1.

HAD SLIM LEAD

Stottlemyre was nursing a 2-1 lead built on solo homers by Bobby Murcer in the second inning and Roy White in the seventh.

But the Athletics tied it in the eighth when Bob Johnson delivered a pinch single, raced to third on Jose Tartabull's single and scored on a sacrifice fly by Ted Kubiak.

The victory kept Oakland 3½ games behind Minnesota in the American League's Western Division. The Twins whacked Detroit and dropped the defending world champion Tigers 15 games back of Baltimore in the Eastern Division.

Cesar Tovar and Rick Renick smacked home runs to lead the Minnesota attack and the Twins bunched five straight singles for three more runs.

Dave Boswell held the Tigers to two hits until the eighth when Mickey Stanley's bases-loaded single produced two runs.

Juan Rios' throwing error allowed two Baltimore runs to score in the third inning and that was enough for the Orioles to beat Kansas City.

ERROR COSTLY

A throwing error by Ron Hansen on an attempted double play helped Cleveland beat Chicago with Chuck Hinton's single driving in the deciding run. Tony Horton had singled opening the 10th and Ken Harrelson forced him. But Harrelson reached second on Hansen's wild throw and Hinton followed with his single.

Rico Petrocelli, Mike Andrews and Joe Lahoud all tagged home runs for Boston and Ray Culp rode the heavy hitting to a five-hit victory over California.

Frank Howard ripped his 35th home run and two clutch singles helping Washington whip Seattle.

Howard singled and scored in the first and drilled the last of five consecutive singles that produced five runs in the seventh and snapped a 1-1 tie. His ninth-inning homer proved to be the winning run when Seattle rallied for three in the bottom of the ninth.

Carl Morton Wins Another For Mounties

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Carl Morton won his second game within 24 hours for Vancouver Mounties Thursday night pitching a 2-1 victory over Eugene in a Pacific Coast Baseball League contest in Vancouver.

The win came on the strength of a five-hit pitching performance while his win Wednesday was on a 12th inning pinch-hit homer.

Playing before 703 fans, Mounties opened the scoring in the sixth inning when Gary Jestadt doubled and scored on Don Hann's single.

Eugene scored its only run in the seventh as Dennis Doyle singled, went to second on an infield out, to third on a passed ball and scored on Jerry Buchek's single.

Mounties scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh on successive hits by Chico Vaughns, Corky Evans and Larry Himes.

The Mounties picked up 10 hits off Eugene starter Pat Bayless, the loser, and Bill Wolfe, who took over in the seventh. Bayless's record is now 6-6.

SAILING LEAD

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP) — Doug Campbell of Cultus Lake, B.C., Thursday took over the lead in the A flight of the North American Geary class sailing championships which conclude today on Cultus Lake in the Fraser Valley.

Good And Bad Pitching Earns Split For Atlanta

Pat Jarvis made a couple of mistakes in the ninth inning after flirting with a brilliant pitching performance, but everything turned out OK.

His Atlanta team-mates made a lot of mistakes against Philadelphia a short time later—but because of Pittsburgh's Al Oliver, it didn't cause much harm to the Braves' pennant hopes.

Jarvis tamed the Phillies on one hit for 8-2 in Thursday night before he was chased by a rally in Atlanta's 4-2 victory in the opener of a double-header.

Then, in the next game, the Phillies battered Jim Britton, Claude Raymond and Gary Niebauer for eight runs in the sixth inning—Philadelphia's biggest one-inning explosion in more than three years—en route to a 9-0 victory.

But, despite the nightcap loss, the Braves were able to widen their lead in the National League torrid Western Division race to two games—thanks to Oliver.

Oliver delivered the winning run in the 15th inning with a single as Pittsburgh Pirates dropped Los Angeles Dodgers out of second place with a 2-1 win.

That triumph—combined with Cincinnati Reds 6-1 win over Montreal Expos and San Francisco Giants 12-2 loss to Chicago Cubs—left the runner-up spot in the West in a mess.

Cincinnati is second with a .552 percentage, Los Angeles is only .003 percentage points back and fourth-place San Francisco trails the Dodgers by only .001. All three are two games behind the Braves.

New York Mets lost to Houston 2-0 in the only other National League game and fell six games behind the Cubs in the Eastern Division race.

Jarvis was coasting along with his one-hit shutout with two outs and two strikes on Larry Hise when the Phillies rookie lashed his 14th homer of the season.

Rich Allen's double and a single by John Callison produced another run before Raymond came in to get the last out.

Tillman backed Jarvis with three RBIs and Hank Aaron hit a solo homer, his 28th of the season and 538th of his career.

The Phils combined six hits and three Atlanta errors for their eight-run inning in the nightcap after Brave starter Britton had yielded only one hit during the first 5-1-3 innings.

Callison, Deron Johnson, Ron Stone, Don Money and Terry Harmon all had run-scoring hits in the big frame.

Oliver came up with his winning hit for the Pirates after Matty Alou opened the 15th with a single and advanced on Davis' bunt.

The Dodgers—held to two hits by Luke Walker and Joe Gibbon during the first nine innings—broke a scoreless tie on Bill Sudakis' leadoff homer in the 10th.

But Pittsburgh came right back in the bottom of the inning when Jose Martinez' smacked a pinch RBI single.

Johnny Bench cracked a three-run homer and Woody Woodward had a two-run double in powering Cincinnati past Montreal. Garry Arigo was the winner on a six-hitter.

Jose Laboy's 15th homer produced the Expos' lone run.

Ernie Banks and Randy Hundley each slammed two-run homers and Billy Williams contributed a solo shot in helping the Cubs' Ferguson Jenkins win his 14th game.

Tom Griffin and Fred Gladding stopped New York on four hits and Jim Wynn hit his 24th homer as the Astros completed a sweep of a three-game series with the Mets.
